Private Army Chief Eludes Capture In Java

Indonesian Force Loses 60 Soldiers

Republic Claims Dutch Aid Attack

BANDOENG, Java, Jan. 24—A swaggering soldier-of-fortune challenging the month-old government of the United States of Indonesia eluded arrest today after his private army had killed or wounded 60 Indonesian soldiers in a lightning raid on Bandoeng.

Indonesian authorities blamed the Dutch for the ease with which Capt. R. P. P. Westerling's "army of the heavenly host" swooped in and out of Bandoeng, Indonesia's third largest city with a population of 170,000.

Col. Sima Tu Pang, commander-in-chief of the new republic's armed forces, said in Jakarta that the Bandoeng episode was "really a mutiny by a large number of Dutch forces stationed there."

He said that "the rebels passed Dutch positions as they entered the city" and added that Indonesian authorities had warned the Dutch commander in Bandoeng of the possibility of such an attack.

THE INDONESIA defense ministry said that "attempts to return to normal conditions are being made difficult by the Dutch."

Comments of the Indonesian army were flown from Jakarta and Surabaya to reinforce the Bandoeng contingents and guard against further attacks from Westerling's forces, believed to be concentrated in mountains northwest of the city.

The government said that 300 Dutch troops had gone over to Westerling.

The Dutch high commissioner in Jakarta confirmed the desertions and issued an ultimatum that unless deserters return Dutch forces will take "strong action."

Westerling, a 30-year-old ex-commando officer, has demanded that his private army, which he claims numbers 15,000 men, be made an autonomous force in West Java.

A Moslem born in Istanbul and known as "The Turk," Westerling has given the Indonesians until Feb. 15 to recognize his army.

Six hundred of Westerling's rebels moved into Bandoeng, 109 miles west of Jakarta, so swiftly yesterday that the Indonesian defenders never had a chance.

73,000 Miners Still Refusing To Work Pits

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 24—Seventy-three thousand soft coal miners either stayed at home or reported for roving picket duty today in the United Mine Workers' fourth straight week of work stoppages.

A small pocket of 11,000 diggers worked in Western Pennsylvania but some 39,000 others yielded to the "no contract, no work" logic of rebellious bands of roving pickets.

In Eastern Ohio, Northern West Virginia, Alabama and Kentucky over 33,500 rank and filers remained away from the pits. Yet elsewhere in the nation nearly 327,000 bituminous miners swung picks in the second day of the three-day week imposed last Dec. 5.

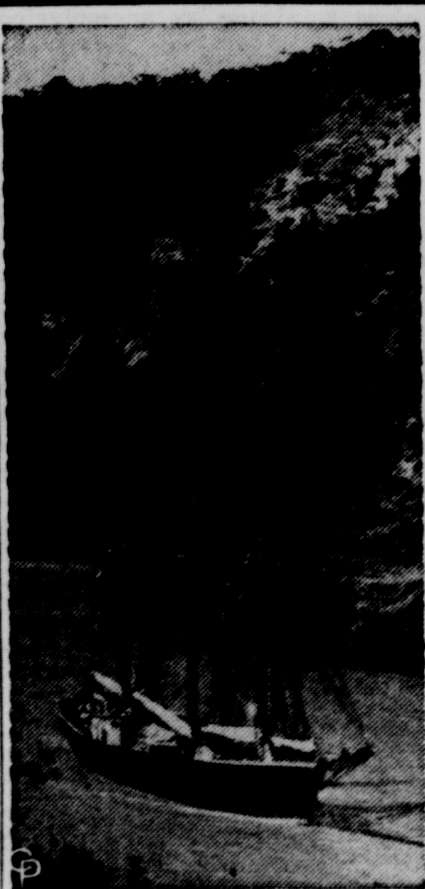

Although this was the third consecutive week in which scattered strikes have been concentrated in the five-state area, UMW President John L. Lewis hasn't taken any outward action. On Jan. 11 Lewis "suggested" that his idle union members resume production.

Since then, district leaders of the UMW have tried unsuccessfully to launch back-to-work movements.

Sources in the coal industry still believe the strike technique is part of the UMW's plan to win a new contract in an eight-month battle with big coal operators and steel firms.

Herbert Out

CLEVELAND, Jan. 24—Thomas J. Herbert, former governor of Ohio, announced today that he will not be a candidate for the state's highest office this year.

ONE OF three Russian fishing ships reported to have appeared in the Caribbean area, where the U. S. will stage military maneuvers soon, the Chikara is shown going through the Panama Canal. She was headed from the Baltic to the north Pacific. Recent rumors told of Soviet ships, equipped with powerful radios, being seen in the "war games" section.

Cold Sunday Is Expected

Weatherman Sees Low Readings Ahead

Ol' Man Winter may have a frigid Sunday ready for delivery later this week, but as of Tuesday he was keeping Ohioans in the dark, under heavy rain-soaked clouds.

The man with an eye on the sky last week predicted that frigid blasts were due any hour, but his prediction flopped. This time, however, he declared flatly that Central Ohio's long-awaited winter was just around the corner.

A generally cloudy condition throughout the state is expected to continue well into Wednesday with scattered showers adding their gray strokes to an already bleak weather picture.

"Thunderstorms are predicted for some parts of Ohio," the forecaster said, "but the rainfall scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday will be occasional and scattered rather than continuous and severe."

Rain has also been forecast for areas in Illinois and Indiana which were recently flooded by the rain-swelled Wabash and Ohio rivers.

GUSTY WINDS from the northwest whipped blizzards into the Dakotas and Minnesota Tuesday, while freezing rains glazed highways in Wisconsin and Michigan.

The mercury Tuesday was expected to climb to high points varying from the mid-thirties to upper-sixties in Ohio, the weatherman continued. Lows will be between 35 and 60 degrees.

The dispiriting fog that covered the northern sections of the state late Monday grounded planes at Cleveland Airport and three airlines behind schedule.

The weather bureau's five-day forecast for Ohio follows: "Showers Wednesday and again about Saturday totaling one quarter to three quarters of an inch. Mild, followed by colder Wednesday or Wednesday night and colder over Thursday. Somewhat warmer Friday or Saturday and much colder Sunday."

The weather bureau in Chicago said local blizzard conditions.

Woman Swallows Pins And Needles

DETROIT, Jan. 24—Doctors prepared to operate today on a 19-year-old Detroit mother who swallowed 30 straight pins, six safety pins and eight needles.

Mrs. Carolyn Hutchinson walked into a hospital last night and said she had come to die. She explained she swallowed the pins and needles because she was dependent over the annulment of her marriage by her mother.

RAF Expects Jet Bomber Replace B-29

Order Of 200 U.S. Superforts To Be Slashed To Mere 20

LONDON, Jan. 24—Mass production of a speedy, maneuverable Royal Air Force jet-bomber is moving so swiftly that Britain's allotment of American B-29s under Atlantic Pact aid is expected to be slashed severely.

Informed London circles say that originally, Britain was to get 200 of the mighty U. S. Superfortresses. But now, with the jet-bomber program in high gear, it is predicted that Britain will settle—willingly—for only 20 of the conventional bombers.

The new plane which British aeronautical experts are "sold on" is the Canberra twin-jet bomber. By the end of 1950—a much earlier date than the air ministry predicted—the Royal Air Force will be equipped with Canberras.

The Canberra is the first jet bomber to be produced in Britain. Exact details as to performance—speed, range, and bombload—are top-secret. But operational trials have far exceeded expectations.

NOW IN QUANTITY production by the English Electric Co., the Canberra is powered by two Rolls-Royce axial flow gas turbines. The plane has a clean, streamlined shape, accentuated by long, slim engine nacelles.

The broad bubble-canopy over the cockpit is almost moulded into the shape of the fuselage to complete the streamlining.

The Canberra is designed for operation at high altitudes and at speeds near the velocity of sound.

The 65-foot long aircraft, with a wingspan of 64 feet, carries no defensive armaments. It depends solely on maneuverability and speed to outlast enemy fighters.

In fact, at a public air display last Fall, observers who noted the Canberra in action were amazed by its performance, which would have done credit to a jet fighter.

With such a potentially formidable plane at its command, the RAF is said to feel that 200 B-29s will be largely in the nature of excess baggage. Perhaps air ministry planners had in mind the strange run of B-29 accidents in the U. S. late last year, and the subsequent grounding of Superforts which had been under "maximum operating stress."

IN ANY CASE, the 20 planes which the RAF will receive, will be used solely for giving British crews experience in high altitude flying. They will probably come from U. S. Air Force squadrons already in England.

In all likelihood, the American crews released by the transfer will return to the U. S. and bring the newer B-50 "atomic" bombers to Britain.

Princess Said 'Good' Now; She Seeks U.S. Visit

LONDON, Jan. 24—Princess Margaret, who has added some unconventional footnotes to the royal book of etiquette, is playing the part of "good girl" now to achieve her fondest ambition—a trip to the U. S. to "see the sights."

Court gossip says that the gay, 19-year-old princess is determined to "endure" a spell of relative quietness to win King George's consent for a journey she hopes would include stops at famed New York night spots like "21" and the Stork Club.

And her friends are laying unofficial "even money" bets that the irrepressible Margaret gets to the U. S. and Canada before the end of 1950, possibly in late Summer when the London social season is over.

Margaret reportedly has "cooled down" considerably because of her desire for the American tour, and because of a friendly warning from her father that her recent escapades created some wrong impressions and a spate of gossip.

THE PRINCESS' departures from royal rules included smoking a cigarette in public, taking a five-minute ride on a bus, and dancing an unruly version of the "can-can" with Sharman.

Good Primary Battle Looming

Things are shaping up for a ding-dong battle in the Pickaway County primary election next May.

The probability loomed Tuesday that four men—two Democrats and two Republicans—would be out after part nominations for county commissioner.

Latest to show interest in the commissioner race is Harry E. Montelius, prominent Pickaway Township farmer.

If his petition is filed, Montelius will be pitted in the May primaries against Lyman E. Penn, incumbent, who filed for nomination on the Republican ticket last week.

Circulating petitions for the Democratic nomination are Harley Mace of New Holland and Troy W. White of Pickaway Township.

Ross County Still Sees No Hope For Local Case

A docket crowded with criminal cases is delaying hearing of the waterworks suit against Circleville in Ross County common pleas court.

According to Judge Howard Goldsberry, the case will not be heard until his docket, overloaded with criminal cases, including one first degree murder suit, is cleared.

The judge said Tuesday he had no way of knowing when that would be.

Nevertheless, local defense attorneys, Ray Davis and City Solicitor George Gerhardt, said they would go to Chillicothe sometime this week in an attempt to get the date for hearing set down as soon as possible.

The case was switched to Ross County after Judge William D. Radcliff in Pickaway County common pleas court granted a change of venue to Attorneys Tom A. Renick and Joseph W. Adkins, who seek to collect $27,500 in fees from the city.

Tip Says Thugs Tried Flight From Boston

BOSTON, Jan. 24—A possible attempt by the Brink's holdup gang to flee Boston by air three hours after last Tuesday's $1,500,000 robbery was reported today by a charter pilot, who said bad weather prevented the flight.

Joe Meehan, charter pilot, said a girl telephoned him at 11 p. m. on the night of the robbery and asked him if he could fly a party of four to Princeton, Me., with a stop enroute to Bangor, Me.

Meehan said the girl said "she was calling from Northeast Airlines. I didn't get her name because I just told her that weather conditions made the flight impossible."

Police and FBI agents yesterday descended on Suffolk Downs race track with picks and shovels after receiving one tip that

CLEVELAND, Jan. 24—Albert Ball, a bachelor, not only will take the lady—he also will take her 12 children.

The 37-year-old truck driver will support the brood on his $55 a week, but he's not worried. "I always loved children," he said.

His bride-to-be is Doris McLeay Daniels, 34, whose first wedding will be set aside tomorrow by a divorce decree.

GOP LEADERS WANT TWO MEASURES

House Dems Back Truman's Plan For Package Tax Cut

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—House Democrats backed President Truman's billion-dollar "one package" tax bill today with a warning against letting excise cuts get out of hand.

One Democrat on the ways and means committee cautioned ed that a free-for-all on excises could cost the government $1.5 billion in lost revenue.

Chairman Doughton, (D) N. C., said the tax-writing committee will meet in a few days to tackle the assignment which members believe will take several months.

The consensus of tax authorities in House and Senate was that Mr. Truman will get some reductions in excise levies, with off-setting revenue increases through plugging of tax law loopholes.

BUT THERE was little firm opinion that corporation, estate and gift taxes would be boosted to provide an additional $1 billion in revenue.

The President asked for both and warned that he will veto any excise cuts not accompanied by other increases to compensate for this lost revenue. This warning provoked vehement charges by Republicans that the President was trying to "dictate" tax legislation.

GOP leaders and Sen. George, (D) Ga., Senate finance chairman, want an immediate, separate excise cutting bill. But supporters of Mr. Truman, including Doughton, want to play safe by keeping losses and gains in the same bill.

Rep. Forand, (D) R. I., a ways and means member, conceded that the President's call for reduction of "excessive depletion exemptions" favoring oil and mining interests spells trouble in the House committee.

House Speaker Rayburn, (D) Tex., whose home state oil industry would be directly affected, took exception to this part of the President's tax message.

HE SAID he was for the oil depletion allowance "as it has always been."

Forand called the message a "very logical" program. In it the President insisted that reductions in excise levies on non-luxury items like transportation, long-distance telephone and telegraph, and retail goods be limited strictly to savings made possible by plugging loopholes in the tax law.

Solon Says Gals Should Fight Too

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—Sen. Kefauver, (D) Tenn., thinks that if the "equal rights for women" constitutional amendment is adopted, women may be asked to shoulder a rifle in front line trenches in event of another war.

He said that equal responsibilities accompany equal rights. He contended that a housewife might be drafted while her husband "is left at home to take care of the children."

Sen. Cain, (R) Wash., replied that the Russians were the most realistic people in World War II. He said that "if a woman had better eyesight for sniping, a sniper she became pronto without regard to sex."

December Increase 'Justified'

Fairless Outlines Industry's Stand

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—Benjamin F. Fairless, U. S. Steel president, told Congress today that his company and the rest of the steel industry are not earning a fair return despite recent price increases.

Fairless testified before the joint congressional economic committee that the December increase in steel prices was more than justified by the cost of pensions to steel workers.

He declared: "In my opinion, United States Steel has not made a fair return either on its sales or investment at any time during the last 20 years."

When Sen. Mahoney, (D) Wyo., asked him if he believed "that other steel companies are not making a fair return," Fairless said that was his opinion.

O'Mahoney wanted to know what the industrialist considered a "fair return," but Fairless said he couldn't define it any further than as "more than we're getting."

THE SENATOR asked Fairless laughingly what steel price he was planning next year to correct "this poor record." Fairless replied:

"We're not planning any price increase next year." According to Fairless, Big Steel's earnings in 1948 were 5.2 percent on sales and 6.5 percent on investment.

He declared that despite increased pay to employees and improved products to purchasers, stockholders "have received very inadequate returns on their investments."

Fairless declared that the steel corporation favors "pension and insurance benefits for

Lausche Weighs Decision On Special Call

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Governor Lausche will announce tonight his decision on whether to have a special session of the Ohio Legislature.

Following a two and a quarter hour meeting with his cabinet, the governor said his decision will be released for publication at 7 p. m.

Lausche appeared in excellent spirits after a breakup of the conference, the second to be called within a week to discuss the state's financial outlook.

He refused to say, however, whether his thinking still followed that of last week when six of seven Democratic legislative leaders advised him they believed there was no need for a special meeting of the General Assembly.

At that time the governor gave every indication that he too believed the legislators need not be called to amend the state's election laws to conform to the new office-type ballot.

Chrysler Corp. Facing Walkout

DETROIT, Jan. 24—Eighty-nine thousand auto workers in 23 Chrysler Corp. plants will walk off their jobs at 10 a. m. tomorrow barring unexpected developments at a last-ditch negotiating session here today.

Threat of a strike that would paralyze a nationwide network of Chrysler plants hung heavy over the conference table as union and company negotiators met in an almost hopeless effort to settle their pension differences before tomorrow's deadline.

Tie Vote Cast To Keep Union At Container

Production and maintenance workers in Circleville Container Corp. of America will continue to be represented by the United Mine Workers union.

The workers met in the local plant Monday afternoon to decide whether they would continue under UMW or switch to the American Federation of Labor's Brotherhood of Papermakers.

A count and recount of the ballots showed that a total of 112 men voted during the afternoon—56 for the change, 56 against it.

Leonard Buskirk, president of the UMW affiliation in the plant, Tuesday declared that the tie vote meant that the UMW would continue to represent the local workmen.

"The issue," Buskirk said, "was to determine whether we would change."

"In order to effect the change, a majority of 'yes' votes was needed. The tie vote failed to provide the majority."

The election was sponsored by the National Labor Relations Board and was supervised by a representative of the NLRB.

The UMW union involved here is District 50, John L. Lewis' famed "catch-all" union.

Policy Slip Eater Nabbed

CLEVELAND, Jan. 24—Henry Jackson, 60, may be of the opinion that "a policy slip a day keeps the cops away," but his theory backfired last night.

Jackson escaped charges of possessing numbers slips twice last year by eating the evidence, according to Deputy Inspector Michael J. Blackwell.

When Blackwell's men spotted Jackson last night he again started chewing on a wad of the slips, but the patrolmen noticed more policy tabs in his shoes. He was arrested and charged with possession of policy slips.

Robinson Signs

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—Jackie Robinson, the National League's most valuable player in 1949, signed his 1950 Brooklyn Dodger contract today at a reported figure of $35,000—nearly double the amount he got last year.

December Increase 'Justified'

(Continued from Page One) our employees. Our earnings, however, are not sufficient to permit us to absorb the large costs involved. That is the reason we raised prices."

O'Mahoney said that Fairless was called upon to "justify" the increase in steel prices.

Fairless said that the pension program, part of Big Steel's new contract with the CIO Steelworkers Union, is estimated at a cost of $67.5 million a year, plus increased social security taxes of $3.4 million a year.

The steel company president said: "These costs alone are $3.88 per ton and more than offset the $3.82 per ton which we hope to obtain from our price increases."

In addition to pension and insurance costs, Fairless said, coal costs mounted $20 million in the last year, and freight and fuel oil cost $13 million more.

FAIRLESS attacked estimates of the corporation's long-term income "based on one-quarter or one-half year earnings at an extraordinary high rate of production" as a basis for price quotations.

He also declared that while the workers have benefitted by wage increases, others had not. He said:

"We did not believe in December, nor do we believe now, that there is any good reason why we should sacrifice the income of stockholders and the interests of the business as a whole in order to provide additional benefits for our employees."

"Stockholders, as well as employees, are entitled to consideration when determinations are made as to how the enterprise is to be operated."

Scioto Lodge Names Johnson

George Johnson has been elected exalted ruler of Scioto Lodge IBPOW in Circleville for 1950.

Other officers elected to posts in the lodge are Harry Grant, leading knight; Ellwood Lewis, loyal knight; Richard Smith, lecturing knight; Jesse Smith, esquire; Charles Smith, secretary; James Smith, inner guard; Elmer Valentine, treasurer; and Robert Foster, treasurer.

Melvin Bass, past exalted ruler, and Charles Davis and Lester Lewis have been elected trustees of the lodge.

Game Refuge Trapping Set

Clarence Francis, county game protector, Tuesday said he expects to see extensive rabbit trapping on county game refuges in the near future.

"It'll be legal, though," Francis said. "I'm going to do the trapping."

He explained that he will catch the bunnies who escaped the hunters' guns last Fall by running to the refuges. Francis will catch the cotton-tails in "live" traps and release them in various parts of the county.

$15,000 to cover legal fees and services.

Adkin's petition, virtually the same as Renick's, asks $12,500. It states he was hired by the city from Jan. 1, 1946, to June 4, 1947, six-months less than the time spent by Renick.

The pending suit apparently is the only obstacle to the sale of municipal bonds totalling $90,000, since the bonding company reportedly will not issue them until a non-litigation certificate can be passed.

The original bond issue was passed by public ballot for $550,000, of which $420,000 was for the water works. Later an additional $40,000 was authorized to take care of improvements needed. Part of the $90,000 left is in unsold bonds.

Vandenberg Says Formosa Issue Should Go UN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—Sen. Vandenberg, (R) Mich., is considering the idea of proposing that the future of Formosa be settled by the United Nations in order to give Formosans "some say in their own destiny."

The Republican foreign policy leader probably will sound out State Secretary Acheson on this approach today when the cabinet member testifies again behind closed doors of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Vandenberg in discussing the future of Formosa, which is considered a Chinese territory under the Cairo Declaration, said:

"I can't help feel that the people of Formosa are entitled to some say in their own destiny. But I don't know exactly how it would be best to proceed."

One avenue the senator has in mind is that of submitting the matter of control over Formosa to the United Nations.

Vandenberg is trying to sound out opinion on this because such a course might bog down any decision in the current Soviet-U. S. wrangle over Nationalist China's membership in the UN.

Dance Masters Trying To Sell Square-Dancing

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Seems like its old-fashioned anymore not to be old-fashioned.

In fact, when some 200 members of the Dance Masters of Ohio gathered in serious conclave here last weekend, their principal concern seemed to be how to teach square-dancing to a rising generation.

Seems like the old-fashioned frolic is sweeping the country anew.

One teacher, Bill Cassidy of Alliance, appeared to have the problem licked.

But then, every teacher doesn't have a 73-year-old father to haul out of retirement, like Bill has, to help him out.

Lowell Stone of Elyria was instructing the instructors—on account it's serious, this square-dancing thing.

Said Clement Brown of Akron, in what seemed a pretty general expression of sentiment:

"They go for it big in New York, Chicago and the West Coast. It's good for social gatherings, but it'll never take in night clubs—their floors are too small."

NEW POLIO PATTERN

The pattern of infantile paralysis incidence has changed in recent years. No longer do epidemics seem to strike only in given areas. Their savagery is felt almost everywhere. Last year virtually no section of the nation was left unscathed, as this great gripper swept the nation with unprecedented fury. The grim scorecard showed more than 41,000 stricken by this disease—the highest total in the nation's history. What does 1950 hold in store? We cannot afford the luxury of unpreparedness. Give what you can to the current March of Dimes appeal of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Give generously.

Three Petitions Are Filed Here Asking Divorces

Three petitions for divorce have been filed in Pickaway County common pleas court.

A petition has been filed by Ralph W. Smith against Polly Smith of Turlington charging gross neglect of duty. The couple, who have one child, married March 16, 1946 in Circleville.

The plaintiff asked that custody of the child be granted to the wife pending further order of the court.

Another petition was filed by Charmee Lee Carter against Paul E. Carter of Williamsport. Gross neglect of duty is charged.

According to the petition, the couple married Dec. 20, 1947 in Mt. Sterling, have no children. The wife asks the court to grant her the household furniture and to restore her former name, Charmee Lee Stinson.

Third petition was filed by Helen M. Graham against Charles A. Graham of York street. Gross neglect is charged. The petition states the couple married Dec. 1936 in Greenup, Ky. They have two children. The wife asks the court to grant her custody of the children.

Carter Estate Set At $34,165

An inventory and appraisal of the John D. Carter estate has been filed in Pickaway County probate court, listing a total appraisal of $34,165.01.

Of the total real estate was listed at $25,772.78, credits at $3,365.23 and personal goods and chattels at $5,027. Property exempt from administration was given as $2,500, leaving a net total estate of $31,665.01.

Tip Says Thugs Tried Flight From Boston

the loot was buried there. This apparently came to nothing.

Four ex-convicts were arrested—two in Soughton, Mass., and two in Boston, and police said the arrests were "important" in their efforts to trace the bandits.

Arrest of the two men in Soughton followed a tip flashed from New York by Lt. James V. Crowley of Boston and State Police Inspector James F. Coniff. One of the men was questioned a year ago in connection with the gangland slaying of Robert Holmes in a Back Bay hotel. Crowley said he and the other man, a farmer, had "knowledge of the Brink's job."

The other two men in custody were a Dorchester locksmith and a Back Bay man, identified only as a local underworld figure.

Bulgar Chief Dies At 72 After Long Illness

SOFIA, Jan. 24 — Bulgarian Premier Vasil Petrov Kolarov died yesterday after a long illness.

The death of the 72-year-old veteran Communist came six months after his election by the Bulgarian parliament to succeed his long-time friend, Georgi Dimitrov.

Dimitrov died in Russia on July 2, also after an extended illness.

The Russians attributed Dimitrov's death to diabetes.

Kolarov's death came at a time when relations between Bulgaria and the United States were strained almost to the breaking point.

Bulgaria has demanded the recall of Donald A. Heath, U. S. minister to Sofia, and the United States has threatened to cut off diplomatic relations completely unless Bulgaria withdraws its demand.

Kolarov and Dimitrov not only led the Communist fight in Bulgaria through the years but were closely associated in the work of the Communist International in the 1920s and 1930s.

The Communist assumption of power in Bulgaria in the closing days of World War II catapulted both to the top.

Kolarov served as general secretary of the Comintern in 1922-24 while Dimitrov was a member of the Comintern's executive committee from 1921 through 1935.

Margaret's trip to Canada is considered almost certain. But it's the possibilities of a "side trip" to America and a glimpse of New York's great white way that have the vivacious princess excited.

The mercury skidded to five degrees above zero in the northern half of the state and dropped slowly past 20 degrees in the south.

Other officers elected to club posts are Luther Bower, vice president; Ervin Leist, secretary-treasurer; and John Woods, head of the greens committee.

In addition, Woods, John Moore, Bill Goodchild and Harry Diehl were elected as trustees of the club during 1950.

Patrick said Ed Amey has been rehired as pro and manager for the club while Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Crites will continue to manage the club home.

Patrick added that some redecorating is being completed in the home at present, but that the building program proposed last year has been shelved temporarily because of the high costs of materials.

Approximately 150 persons now are members of the club.

ABOUT BIGGER BOMBS

IF THE principles of the original atomic bomb had been discovered in a time of peace instead of during a world war, the controversy around it probably would have been something like that which now has arisen over the proposal to try to make a vastly more powerful atomic bomb, exploding hydrogen instead of uranium. It is not a simple thing to decide whether or not to embark on such a significant adventure.

The foremost argument of those who favor the adventure is that we ought to try to beat Russia to this super-punch. In such authoritative information as has been made public there is no suggestion that research along this new avenue would have any peaceful usefulness. It is indicated that the hydrogen explosion would be so powerful and so difficult to control that its only use would be for the blanket destruction and mass murder of war.

If that is the case, the decision certainly should be made to rest on deliberate, thoughtful debate, free from haste, hysteria and frenzy. There is much to be said for the proposal that this new development should be the basis for a new attempt to reach an understanding with Russia. The cost in money of the hydrogen bomb project, whether it would be two hundred millions or two billions, even the cost in diversion of time and energy from other atomic research, would be trifling compared with the deliberate risk involved in turning our great atomic energy program into a channel the only outlet for which would be in war.

HOUSES TO RENT

WORD from Washington is that a scheme is being cooked up to provide rental housing for the middle-income family, through assistance to cooperative rental projects. There used to be an idea that the solid middle-income family should own a home, get it paid for during the productive years of the breadwinner, and have the security of a certain roof overhead in the declining years.

It's still a feasible procedure. It's still a good idea, and thousands of young Americans are acting on it. But a nation as short of all kinds of shelter as this one was after depression and war had practically put an end to building for fifteen years, needs, for a while, all the shelter it can get.

No rental projects, however, no matter how good, should dim the eyes of Americans toward home-owning. There's no satisfaction like it.

The enviable baggage chores of the piccolo player are in for some competition from the new folding bass fiddle, no less. What next?

These Days

Parts of the world that never bothered us are suddenly coming upon our horizon. We have no more become familiar with such a place as Formosa than the Caspian Sea looms upon us. For it is in the environs of the Caspian that Soviet Russia is experimenting with the atomic bomb for vast purposes.

Kenneth deCourcy, whose newsletter is so often correct in details which seem unavailable to others, cabled recently from England about the Davidoff plan to which Andrei Vishinsky made reference before the United Nations.

M. J. Davidoff, according to DeCourcy, devised a plan for the diversion of two Russian rivers, by blasting a mountain range, with the object of raising the level of the Caspian Sea.

Some of the most important events in history can be traced to the lowering of the level of the Caspian Sea which is now reported to be nearly 90 feet lower than what is assumed to have been its highest point. For instance, Alexander the Great fought for years to keep the Nomads, as they were regarded, out of his empire and to do it, he conquered a vast territory. These so-called Nomads were probably pushed out of their lands by the drying up of areas due to the lowering of the Caspian level. The Davidoff plan, which according to DeCourcy is in actual operation, would bring into cultivation some 20,000,000 hectares of land or nearly 50 million acres.

The Russians, under this plan, expect to build on the Caspian the largest hydro-electric plant in the world.

Precisely why costly plutonium has to be used instead of TNT or dynamite, I cannot explain. Blowing a channel through a mountain for a river may or may not be more difficult than building a tunnel through a mountain for a railroad. What is interesting is that the Russians are developing the Caspian-Aral region and that they may turn the Karakum desert into a rich agricultural region.

This would alter geography, opening to agriculture a once rich but now arid region which in ancient times was part of the Persian empire and sent great migrations of peoples into other parts of Asia and even Europe. Raising the level of the sea means that a large area of land will be covered by its waters.

If the Davidoff plan is practical, the political effects will be enormous. A large Russian population could then be planted on the borders of Iran and Afghanistan. Following the Cossack procedures, this population would be simultaneously agricultural and military. Its standard of living would be higher than that of the peoples of Afghanistan who are mostly tribesmen and of Northern Iran.

Apparently, the Russians also plan to industrialize this area, or otherwise the Davidoff plan would not include the great hydro-electric plant. Such industrialization could affect the future of Iran and even lead to its conquest.

Condition With Varied Causes That Many People Suffer From

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

PROBABLY no other condition affects so many people as constipation, and there are few conditions which have more varied causes. These range from the simple "bad habit" class to actual organic damage to some part of the digestive system.

In the majority of cases, constipation is probably due to a simple and easily corrected cause, such as failure to take enough general exercise. Other causes in this same category are failure to drink enough fluids and the eating of too much starchy food, so that not enough bulk or roughage is supplied the intestine.

Mental Factors

Psychological or mental factors also contribute to constipation. Nervousness is a cause, as is fatigue or over-tiredness.

Some people produce constipation in a severe form by their very efforts to correct it. There is no surer way of making this condition permanent than the continued excessive use of cathartics, laxatives, or enemas.

After a confining illness, during which little or no exercise can be taken, constipation is pretty much the rule.

It must be remembered, however, that there are other and more serious causes for constipation.

Actual changes in the bowel and surrounding structures may be responsible, in some cases. For example, such things as hemorrhoids or piles, which are dilated veins around the lower opening of the bowel, and fissures or cracks in its lining membrane may lead to constipation. When these disorders are cleared up, the constipation disappears.

Gallbladder Trouble

Sometimes the trouble is due to a disturbance of the gallbladder. Constipation will not be relieved in these cases until the gallbladder disorder is overcome. The scarce flow of bile from the gallbladder into the intestine leads to the development of dry, hard stools. Treatment in such cases consists of the giving of bile salts, and often this in itself will relieve the disorder.

The person who has constipation is in need of careful study by a physician to determine the source of the difficulty. Then, and only then, can proper treatment be carried out. Above all, he should avoid self treatment.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. I.: What causes spasms of the bowel?

Answer: In most cases this is due to some type of nervous disturbance. It may be due to the abuse of laxatives or enemas.

CHAPTER FORTY-TWO
GERRY and Alicia waited until the door leading from the hall to the rear of the house closed. As he moved toward her across the room they heard the station wagon pull away.

"This is very dangerous, Gerry." "For you, yes. And I'm sorry. But I had to see you."

"For you, too, I'm afraid."

"It's all right for me. Susan knows I'm here."

"Does she? I wasn't thinking of her, though." She was silent a moment. Then, "Lester told me about today."

"He did? Well, that saves time for me." He looked at her, all his face sharp and alive and angry as it had been when she first knew him. "He's on to things, isn't he," he said.

"You mean..."

"I mean he knows that we..." He checked himself. "That you," he corrected, "feel an interest in me."

She smiled. "The way you started to say it first is the way it really is. Why not admit it, Gerry?"

He made an impatient gesture. "However it is, it gives him an edge!"

"Of course."

"He's having a wonderful time," Gerry's tone rasped, "playing a cat and mouse game with me because of it."

"I can imagine."

"But when he gets tired or bored, or jealous enough—" He made a scooping, flinging motion with his arms.

She nodded.

He stepped close to her. His mind had cleared on the way over here and he knew that if he went back to Susan and apologized, she would forgive him. She was extraordinary that way. But things might be different between them. He was not sure about that. He was only sure that it was much more difficult for him to win a battle as a gentleman in a drawing room than a battle as a vagabond in the streets. The tactics required were not the same and he had not had enough training in the former. He had not learned how to keep cool. And now only Alicia could help him. Only Alicia could make it possible for him to go back to Susan with the humble apology he had half-planned. Would she be that generous? But she had been before.

He said, "What I want to know—what I want you to tell me, is how the Judge ever got Lester to hire me in the first place."

"I've puzzled over that, too." He started at her. He couldn't believe she wasn't aware of what he was driving at.

"Think!" he said, taking her by the arm. "What's the Judge got on him? When did Lester ever do something on the shady side? When did he ever get into a scrape that Steven King had to get him out of? Think?"

"I'm trying to, but I can't remember a thing. Lester's clever, you know. And he always gets good advice." She stopped, frowning slightly. "Wait a minute. Yes. Yes, there was something. I vaguely remember now."

He caught her other arm and shook her gently.

"Go on!"

She said slowly, "It's come back to me. But it wasn't anything, Gerry. I mean, it turned out to be nothing. Some man Lester had fired once came back at him with serious charges. At least they seemed serious though I forget exactly—"

"Think!"

"You're hurting me, Gerry."

"I'm sorry." He slipped his arms around her and drew her to him. "If you knew what this means to me," he begged.

"I do know what this means to you. But it's no good, my dear."

"No good?"

"No. The man was a fanatic. Judge King found out he'd been in a psychopathic ward once and the whole thing was dropped. It could have been ugly but it wasn't. I suppose," she finished, "Lester hired you out of gratitude to Steven King for that. I can't think of any other reason."

"There is another reason, though."

It was Lester speaking, and Alicia and Gerry, springing apart, whirled to face him. He stood in the wide doorway to the hall, his police dog, Max, on a leash he held in his hand.

"I hired you to keep an eye on me. I hired you so that I would know, through the days, at least, just where you were doing." He advanced a step or two into the room, the great dog straining ahead of him, growling menacingly. "And now I see I shall have to keep track of you through the nights, too." He smiled faintly. "Do you think Judge King will like your being here, Mr. Barton? Do you think your fiancée will be pleased to have me tell her I discovered you embracing my wife on an evening when I was out? Supposed to be out," he corrected.

NEW YORK—The citizens of this city have a small, select list of idols, encompassing show people, artists, writers, short-order cooks and bartenders, who for one reason or another have been too talented or too cosmopolitan in their lifetimes for the rest of the country.

The list includes Ethel Merman and Mary Martin, wonderful ladies of the stage whose gifts weren't obvious enough for the movies; writer E. B. White, who never has condescended to write down to his audience; cartoonist James Thurber, whose fin de siècle artistry appeals to the decadent in us, and a few others. They are New York favorites almost completely, although there are some in the rest of the land who know and love them.

More successful on a national scale than these is the dancer named Ray Bolger, but even though Ray is securely entrenched as a character actor in the films, he remains primarily a New York idol and thus is eligible for our brief list. We were thinking about Ray today and wondering how in heaven's name he ever became an actor.

We have pointed out before that actors, although filthy with charm, rarely are what you might call regular guys. This is a much-abused term that indicates a species of male who chews tobacco, drinks Irish whisky, plays five-card draw poker and attends lodge meetings.

We mean it somewhat differently. Our regular guy is a man who realizes he is no better than his neighbor, who can hoot sincerely at his achievements, who will lend you five bucks in a hurry and who is kind to dogs.

What that adds up to, we are not quite sure, but rarely is it an actor. An actor is usually an enchanting egotist, but do not be misled. He is not real.

Racial Discrimination Is Rapped In Paper Read Here Before Monday Club

Negro's Status Is Outlined

"America," said Mrs. James Reichelderfer when she gave a paper on the American Negro before Monday club, "is a rainbow blending of many colors and creeds and cultures, a promise that diverse peoples may live together happily and successfully with personal liberty and national solidarity."

Continuing the program for the year, "Nation of Nations," Mrs. Reichelderfer warned that although some of us might think of America as owned by a single racial stock or cultural group America is the home of all and many different races who came seeking freedom and opportunity and stayed to build a great Democracy.

"The American Negro," Mrs. Reichelderfer continued, "is one of the exciting strands of the New World rainbow."

Mrs. Reichelderfer stated that the American Negro is gradually advancing his status alongside his brother races in the United States. She reminded her audience that Oberlin was the first educational institution in the United States to admit women on equal terms with men and Negroes on equal terms with whites. Wilberforce, near Xenia, one of the best Negro institutions in the country and is in part supported by state funds, according to Mrs. Reichelderfer. She added that a Negro was president of one of the chief student organizations at Ohio State university last year and that a Negro was head of the Young Women's Christian Association.

Mrs. Reichelderfer gave a list of American Negroes who had achieved fame in various fields of endeavor.

Included were Dr. Ralph Bunch of United Nations fame; Marion Anderson, distinguished singer; Walter White, author and veteran lynching foe; Mary McLeod Bethune, founder of Bethune-Cookman college; W. E. B. DuBois, brilliant writer of caustic classic English; Charles S. Johnson, head of Social Science Institute of Fisk university; the late George Washington Carver, scientist and pioneer in field of agriculture; Mordecai Johnson, president of Howard university, Washington D. C.; and Langston Hughes, poet.

Mrs. Reichelderfer concluded by touching upon the lamentable race prejudice existing in certain sections of the country. "There will never be a solution of the Negro problem satisfactory to everybody," Mrs. Reichelderfer said, "but improvements must continue if American Democracy itself is to survive. Discrimination, not only contaminates the Negro community, it contaminates the white as well."

Mrs. Arthur Wagar sang three spirituals after Mrs. Reichelderfer's paper had been presented. They included "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord," arranged by H. T. Burleigh; "Sweet Little Jesus Boy," by Robert MacGinsey; and "Run, Mary, Run," by David Guine.

Chemists hold there are only four fundamental odors, fragrant, burnt, acid and caprylic, which is the odor of evil-smelling chemicals.

Bulb-Forcing Is Detailed To Garden Club

Two speakers were on the program when Mt. Pleasant Garden Club of Kingston was entertained in the home of Mrs. D. H. Dreisbach Monday evening. Mrs. Wayne DeLong talked on "Bulb Forcing" and Mrs. Ralph Francis spoke on "Forcing Tree branches and Shrubs."

Preceding the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Leo Davis, president, members answered rollcall by giving the name of a bulb they planned to force, or make bloom ahead of schedule.

It was voted that the club purchase fencing to protect the flower bed planted with bulbs in the school yard.

Mrs. Mark Moran provided the music on the program. She sang "My Garden of Memories" and "Trees."

A double African violet was awarded Mrs. Burt Jackson as winner of the year book decoration contest.

Mrs. Charles Elker assisted Mrs. Dreisbach in serving the 16 members and five guests a dessert course during the social hour.

Adelphi OES Group Meets

A bouquet of honeysuckle centered the table when Mrs. Ed Fetherolf of Saltcreek Township entertained Past Matron's club, Evergreen chapter, Order of Eastern Star, of Adelphi Saturday evening. Mrs. Fetherolf had discovered the honeysuckle blooming in her yard.

The affair was a covered dish dinner in the Fetherolf home. Mrs. Florence B. Bowsher presided at the short business session. Watching television was the entertainment provided for the group.

Present for the dinner were Mrs. George Bowers, Mrs. Clay Reichelderfer, Mrs. G. H. Armstrong, Mrs. F. M. Bowsher, Mrs. J. L. Chilcote, Mrs. Roy Fraumfelter, Mrs. Bowsher and Miss Florence Bowsher.

Germany's 'Dangerous' Spot Cited

Need For Small Army Is Talked

BERLIN, Jan. 24—The rising chorus of German demands for a standing army of moderate size was strengthened today by the voice of Chancellor Dr. Konrad Adenauer.

In his conversations with French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman for solution of present European problems involving or affecting Germany, Adenauer stressed Germany's allegedly "dangerous" position as buffer state in the bulletless conflict between East and West.

He chose the occasion of Schuman's visit to go on record with what undoubtedly is a German national sentiment—the desire for some sort of an armed force even though it is rigidly controlled by international authorities and pledged to non-aggression.

Regardless of the rights or wrongs of such an attitude, there is no question that the Germans have a feeling of insecurity that cannot help but make itself felt in other countries.

VIRTUALLY throughout all of recorded time, the Germans always have had some sort of an army.

It is perfectly true that it has not always been wisely used. As a matter of fact, it usually has been an aggressive force rather than a protective one.

But the fact is that the German people have a military tradition that is centuries old. The disastrous defeat of Adolf Hitler made it necessary that the Western Allies should attempt to eliminate not only the army but the tradition as well.

The experiment has not been too satisfactory.

Experiences after World War I show that it is absolutely impossible to internationalize a country like Germany or to change in a simple matter of years customs that have come down through the centuries.

German disarmament after 1918 led inevitably to creation of an illegal army known as the black reichswehr. Everyone knew of its existence, including the victorious Allies, but nothing was done about it.

The result was that the moment Hitler got his opportunity, he called his military machine out into the open and the dragon's teeth scattered virtually beneath the noses of occupational officials sprouted into a magnificent army.

Legion Fights Vets Plan In Hoover Report

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24 — Ohio Legionnaires were recruited today for a campaign aimed at the rejection of the Hoover Commission's proposals for the veterans Administration.

Paul M. Herbert, former Ohio lieutenant governor and state commander of the Legion, launched the campaign here Sunday at an "emergency session" of 800 Legion chiefs. Herbert said:

"Blank check" endorsement of the Hoover Commission proposals for reorganization of government is asking for dismemberment of the Veterans Administration and anything except economy and efficiency in veteran affairs.

Herbert recalled that Charles G. Dawes in 1921 urged the creation of an independent agency for veteran affairs and that President Hoover, in 1930, backed the creation of the Veterans Administration. He added:

"I can't believe Mr. Hoover knew the contents of the Hoover Commission subcommittee's recommendations on veteran affairs."

Herbert urged Legionnaires to "go home and fight against ignorance" and asserted that proponents of the Hoover economy package are doing so "without knowing what is in the report."

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

This morning I got the following letter from a Mr. Jake Withers of Sequatchie County, Tennessee:

Dear Mister Billy Rose,

In some recent issues of The Nashville Tennessean I noticed the columns you wrote about educated animals—dogs that could add and subtract, and horses that could figure out cube roots—and so I figured you might be interested in hearing about the smartest four-legged critter in the history of Sequatchie County.

To begin at the beginning, there's a truck farmer down here by the name of Lem Albright who owns a possum hound which is as black as the inside of a tar barrel.

Lem calls him "Einstein" and, to hear Lem tell it, the dog has more brains than a passel of professors—and after what happened the other night at our smoked-ham supper and square dance, most everyone in Sequatchie is inclined to agree.

Here's what happened:

A couple of weeks ago, Mrs. Will Purdy's mother, who lived across the line in Grundy County, passed away, and when the family gathered for the divvying up, Will's wife got a gold brooch set with eight diamonds, three of them genuine. Needless to say, she wore the brooch to the smoked-ham supper and square dance, and needless to recount, it got more attention than a team-of-four with their tails trimmed.

EVERYTHING went smooth as molasses at the social until right in the middle of a "swing your partner" when Mrs. Purdy let out a screech and fainted dead away. And when they brought her around, she began hollering for someone to lock the doors because her brooch had been stolen from right off her chest.

Fortunately, our sheriff was on hand, and after he banged the lid of the piano to get people quiet he said, "Don't nobody leave this room. I hate to say it, but there's a low-down, thievin' crook in our midst, and I'm a-goin' to search every man-jack until I find Mrs. Purdy's brooch."

"Sheriff," said Lem Albright, "I don't think that'll hardly be necessary. My hound Einstein, as you know, is the best-behaved animal in Sequatchie County, but the one thing he can't abide is to have a thief scratch his belly."

"So, sure as shootin', the minute he feels the fingernails of the fella we're after, he'll start in to yowl, and we'll have the thief in no time a-tall."

Some of us began to laugh, but the sheriff took Lem to aside, talked to him a minute, and then banged the piano lid again.

"I don't rightly know whether Lem's notion is going to work," he said, "but there ain't no harm in givin' it a try. I'm goin' to ask him to take Einstein in the next room, and then I want all of you to get in single file and come in one at a time and scratch the hound's belly."

Everybody, including the fiddlers, did as told, and sure enough, twenty minutes later the sheriff pointed at a farmhand as he came out from seeing the hound and said, "It worked, like

Jake said—there's the criminal."

WHEN THE MAN was grabbed and searched, the brooch was found in his pocket, and so, on top of a smoked-ham supper and square dance, there was a running-out-of-town party to top off the evening. And all in all, it was easily the most successful social in a long while.

Next day, when Lem was interviewed by the editor of our paper, he didn't brag much about his hound. "To tell the truth," he said, "the sheriff and me, we wasn't too sure Einstein could spot the criminal, so we helped him out a mite. I rubbed a little soot from the stove on the hound's underside, and every time anyone came out of the room the sheriff looked at his hands. The first person with clean hands figured to be our man, because the thief was a cinch to make believe he was scratchin' Einstein without really touchin' his belly a-tall."

Yrs. truly, Jake Withers.

Reds Hope For Fall Of Berlin

Yank General Tells Beliefs On Russia

BERLIN, Jan. 24—Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor said today he thinks a new Soviet "physical blockade" of Berlin is "entirely possible" but that the Russians are counting on economic collapse of the city instead.

The U. S. Berlin commandant told a visiting group of American editors that the establishment of the East German government is particularly "menacing" because a "blockade can be imposed by German puppets without a single Soviet bayonet in sight."

Taylor said he also considers it "possible that East German police troops would be used in a putsch on West Berlin if other methods of taking the city fail."

He added:

"The Soviets clearly consider Germany the key to control of Europe and Berlin the key to control of Germany. They are determined to capture the city politically. They have not relaxed the pressure the slightest although one blockade failed."

EVIDENCE indicates, Taylor said, that the east zone police army is being expanded and receiving primarily military training.

The American military chief in Berlin said the city "is still blockaded in the economic sense" because the difference in east and west zone mark exchange rates prevents the flow of goods from West Berlin to natural East German markets.

Taylor described Berlin's financial crisis as "extremely acute" and said West Berlin's newspapers and political parties are threatened by money problems.

Economic problems, he said, are "also presenting a constant serious political threat inherent in large-scale unemployment."

"Our big push will be from now until Summer."

West Berlin Mayor Ernest Reuter estimated for the editors that "at least 90 percent of the people of East Germany are against the Soviet system."

He also said he doubts that Russia will reimpose the Berlin blockade and feels "sure the Soviets won't resort to war because they are not prepared for war."

Autos Banned In Road Test

LA PLATA, Md., Jan. 24—The "seen highway sign" "trucks prohibited" will be reversed this Spring on a stretch of U. S. Highway 301 near La Plata.

The highway section will be for trucks only, and passenger cars will be routed on a parallel stretch of old road.

It is all in the interests of science. The Maryland highway department seeks to determine the effect of trucks weighing as much as 44,800 pounds on reinforced concrete roads.

Government Ready To Buy Pork Surplus

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—The government is expected this week to go into the pork business.

The Agriculture Department announced last week that it will buy smoked ham, bacon and pork picnic shoulders for distribution to the school lunch program and governmental institutions.

A spokesman said the department will act on offers made of those pork products sometime near the end of this week.

The government's offer to buy came on the heels of dropping hog prices.

The department receives bids each week Monday through Thursday and meat packers making offers will be notified of acceptance before noon Friday.

The farmers' hog prices are to be maintained at 90 percent of parity. This is a fairly difficult thing to do, a spokesman pointed out, in view of the large marketings available.

Meanwhile, the department said that the average market price of barrows and gilts for last week was $15.75. This compares with the hog support guide for the seven markets for that week of $15.50.

Court May Get Cabbie Strike

CINCINNATI, Jan. 24—Cincinnati's three-day-old strike of more than 400 cab drivers appeared headed for the courts today.

The Parkway Taxi Co., whose 150 AFD drivers are not participating in the walkout, may seek an injunction to prevent picketing of its garage.

The strikers, members of an independent union, walked out in a dispute over contract negotiations. They are employed by the Yellow and Ferguson divisions of Taxicabs of Cincinnati, Inc.

STRATOSPHERE COOK'S TOUR Man May Soon Be Flying At Same Speed Of Earth

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—In the market for a Cook's Tour of the stratosphere? Want a ticket for tomorrow?

Care to lunch in Glasgow, Scotland, at noon, tea in Gander, Newfoundland, the same—or almost the same—noon—and dine at-over Kodiak, Alaska, at the very same noon?

These among others may be the treats in store for the inveterate traveler of tomorrow if predictions made at a meeting of the Circumnavigators Club in New York come true.

Brig. Gen. Harold Harris, vice-president of American Overseas Airlines, was the expert who told the club members, all of whom have been around the world at least once, about the "ticket for tomorrow."

Harris said that in the field of jet aviation it could be possible in the coming years to fly at the same speed as the rotation of the earth, making it possible to keep up with the movement of the earth in its revolutions around the sun.

It was at this point that Harris said that if the flight around the world were made eastward from

Glasgow rather than west it would be equivalent to buying a "ticket to yesterday."

WILLY LEY, noted German rocket expert now an American citizen, said that with the development of jets and rockets a "Cook's Tour of the solar system" is a probable reality sometime in the future.

He added, however: "I am not selling any tickets at the moment."

Col. Thomas Lamphier Jr., famed wartime ace and now president of the Air Force Association, gave the globe-circling club members a graphic example of how fast circumnavigation now is.

Lamphier, who recently set a new record for round-the-world travel speed via commercial airlines, said on the day he left he was talking in Washington with Air Secretary Symington.

Symington was interrupted by a phone call and Lamphier, pressed for time, simply bowed out.

"When I got back to this country after flying around the world in less than five days," said Lamphier, "I went back to Washington to pick up the brief case I left in Secretary Symington's office."

When he walked in, Symington said, without thinking: "As I was saying, Tom, when we were interrupted..."

Lass, 5, Gets Town's Praise; She's Heroine

DOVER, Jan. 24 — "What's heroine mean, Mommie?" was the question asked by a five-year-old girl who saved the life of a six-year-old playmate.

Bashful, blue-eyed Vivian Sue O'Brien is a heroine to the 600 residents of nearby Bolivar. She saved little John Christman from drowning Saturday in a 10-foot, ice-covered pump testing pit.

Little Johnny told his parents, "I just put my foot on the ice to see if it would hold me."

The ice didn't hold. Vivian, who saw Johnny waving his hand and "bubbles coming up," ran 25 yards to a building to get an eight-foot wire cable. She tugged Johnny out of the water and left him on the bank while she ran for help.

Junior High Cage Tourney To Get Start Saturday

Darby Juniors Swamp Jackson

Darby will face a crucial test on its own hardwood at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday when Williamsport's junior high squad invades. Darby's lone loss of the current season was suffered recently at the hands of the Williamsport junior team in Williamsport's Sulphur Springs Pavilion.

Officials for this year's junior tourney will be Bill Howard, Owen Sheetz, Carlton Rayl and Bob Whetstone.

Few Undefeated Teams Remain

Other B leaders include Delphos St. John's, last year's state champion (16-1), Mifflin (10-2) and Rittman (9-1).

Reserve Officers, Kiwanis Pace Volleyballers With Clean Marks

Rotary volleyballers won its game by a narrow 3-2 margin over Jaycees, while Kiwanis was credited with a 3-0 win by forfeit over Moose.

Teams representing Calvary EUB church and Circleville teachers apparently have been dropped from the league. They failed to appear for the first two games. Another pair of teams is being sought to round out the league.

FRANK WILKINS, athletic director for the Moose gymnasium, said he was making every effort to keep the league well-rounded.

He said he was mystified at the few number of teams registered for play. Wilkins declared: "This Monday night activity is the cheapest form of recreation."

in Central Ohio. Where else can a man go and play a whole evening for 25 cents. That is the entire fee charged by Moose. It is obvious that it is not a money-making venture on the part of the lodge.

"And it is further obvious that there are a lot of men in this community who could use a little physical conditioning. "Already, we have some of the leaders of the city enrolled in the volleyball league. We have doctors, merchants and even judges.

"We would like to see a few more groups enter the play before the season gets too far underway—church, fraternal or school teams may enter the competition."

PGA Divoteers Now Heading For Phoenix

Haas was precision personified in the final round as he carved six strokes off par to end the day with a 65 and a four-day score of 268—16 blows below regulation.

Ben Hogan, whose comeback attempt in the recent Los Angeles Open ranks as one of the top sports thrills of all time, missed the play at Long Beach but will join the touring troupe in Phoenix.

The Phoenix tourney has been re-named the "Ben Hogan Open," in honor of the Mighty Mite's sensational recovery from a near-fatal automobile-bus collision near his native Fort Worth, Texas, last year.

Despite Haas' showing in the Long Beach affair, pre-tournament favorites at Phoenix will be Hogan and the man who beat him in the playoff for the Los Angeles championship — Sam Snead.

Snead could do no better than a tie for 14th with a 277 at Long Beach although he clipped several strokes off par over the short Lakewood Country Club course.

Cooperatives Open Campaign For Members

600 Goal Is Set For County

Saturday Parley Is Highlight

Pickaway County's 1950 Farm Bureau membership drive opened here Monday with a meeting of township workers and laying of final plans.

The week-long drive, slated to finish Saturday with a celebration in Pickaway Coliseum, is designed to boost the membership in the organization from its present 325 members to 600 members.

Saturday's 29th annual Farm Bureau meeting will feature a financial report for 1949, a barbecue, singing and addresses by officials in the Farm Bureau family.

The annual meeting is to begin at 10 a. m. and last until 3 p. m. Saturday, interrupted at noon for a barbecue dinner.

FIRST SPEAKER on the program will be D. R. Stanfield, who will discuss farm legislation now pending.

Following his address, Litta K. Robertson of the Ohio Farm Bureau will address the group with a speech entitled "Woman's Part in the Farm Bureau."

Last of the guest speakers to be heard on the program will be Robert Smithers, an Ohio State university senior, who studied European farm problems and cooperatives on a 900-mile bicycle tour last year. His trip was arranged by the Farm Bureau.

In addition, the members will elect 22 new directors during the program—20 for the Farm Bureau board and two for the Pickaway Livestock Cooperative board.

Group singing will be led by Mrs. Elizabeth Dunkle, with musical accompaniment by a group of Walnut Township school boys and girls.

Members of the planning committee for the annual celebration are C. M. Reid, Orley Judy, John Dowler, Ben Grace, Forrest Brown, Merle Thomas, Lewis Hay, Mrs. Charles Schleich, Mrs. George Fischer, Mrs. H. O. Caldwell, Genevieve Alley and Mrs. Ralph May.

A complete roundup of last year's activities, as well as results on this year's membership drive, will be discussed during the program.

Child's Feeling Of Being Unwanted Cause Of Much Delinquency, Belief

A child's feeling of being unwanted is one of the major problems facing juvenile courts today.

Judge George Young of Pickaway County juvenile court advanced this fact in a talk before Circleville Kiwanis Club Monday evening.

Speaking in the second in a series of child welfare talks before the club in Pickaway County Club, Judge Young said that the "unwanted feeling" is difficult to correct.

He charged that such an attitude is one of the major reasons for so-called juvenile delinquency.

Other major factors in causing juvenile court dockets to be crowded, the jurist declared, are (a) lack of home training and (b) mental deficiency in the child.

Correction of these difficulties is the juvenile court's major task. He said that "taking it out" on the parent cannot solve the problem although he indicated that parents are more to blame than are the youngsters.

JUDGE YOUNG deplored the fact that "most of our courts have no equipment with which to battle the problem." He said Pickaway County was one of the "have not" areas.

The Bureau of Juvenile Research in Columbus is relied upon to evaluate most of the cases. The judge declared:

"Most of their case summaries advise to 'remove the child from its home environment.' But he added:

"Here in Pickaway County, we seldom can do that."

He explained that "we cannot send a delinquent to the children's home. It would not be right to send the child to a correctional institution."

"Final answer is to enter the child in a foster home. But few families there are here who will take in a delinquent regardless of the fact that the child is seldom responsible for his predicament."

Only solution, the judge said, is to "get society to understand the problem."

HE SAID THAT this "understanding" must come first in the home involved. He explained:

"The home itself must develop pride in whatever it has regardless of how meagre. It should be clean and livable and happy. When that point is reached, there is little breeding ground for discontent, and delinquency will not develop."

Halls Corners Facing Its End

YOUNGSTOWN, Jan. 24—The fate of Halls Corners is to be determined by a special election April 1.

City council set the date last night, following the filing of a petition to dissolve the village, founded 13 years ago to protect operations at the "Jungle Inn," an alleged gambling casino.

The inn was closed for the last time last Summer.

Lake Logan To Be Drained

LOGAN, Jan. 24—Lake Logan, which filled prematurely and floated a gas main that feeds fuel into several communities surrounding Logan, is to be drained today.

Power shovels were moved to the site to release a back flow which caused the gas main to float and threatened a shutoff of the fuel.

Private Army Chief Eludes Capture In Java

Indonesian Force Loses 60 Soldiers

Republic Claims Dutch Aid Attack

BANDOENG, Java, Jan. 24—A swaggering soldier-of-fortune challenging the month-old government of the United States of Indonesia eluded arrest today after his private army had killed or wounded 60 Indonesian soldiers in a lightning raid on Bandoeng.

Indonesian authorities blamed the Dutch for the ease with which Capt. R. P. P. Westerling's "army of the heavenly host" swooped in and out of Bandoeng, Indonesia's third largest city with a population of 170,000.

Col. Sima Tu Pang, commander-in-chief of the new republic's armed forces, said in Jakarta that the Bandoeng episode was "really a mutiny by a large number of Dutch forces stationed there."

He said that "the rebels passed Dutch positions as they entered the city" and added that Indonesian authorities had warned the Dutch commander in Bandoeng of the possibility of such an attack.

THE INDONESIA defense ministry said that "attempts to return to normal conditions are being made difficult by the Dutch."

Comma is of the Indonesian army were flown from Jakarta and Surabaya to reinforce the Bandoeng contingents and guard against further attacks from Westerling's forces, believed to be concentrated in mountains northwest of the city.

The government said that 300 Dutch troops had gone over to Westerling.

The Dutch high commissioner in Jakarta confirmed the desertions and issued an ultimatum that unless deserters return Dutch forces will take "strong action."

Westerling, a 30-year-old ex-commando officer, has demanded that his private army, which he claims numbers 15,000 men, be made an autonomous force in West Java.

A Moslem born in Istanbul and known as "The Turk," Westerling has given the Indonesians until Feb. 15 to recognize his army.

Six hundred of Westerling's rebels moved into Bandoeng, 109 miles west of Jakarta, so swiftly yesterday that the Indonesian defenders never had a chance.

73,000 Miners Still Refusing To Work Pits

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 24—Seventy-three thousand soft coal miners either stayed at home or reported for roving picket duty today in the United Mine Workers' fourth straight week of work stoppages.

A small pocket of 11,000 diggers worked in Western Pennsylvania but some 39,000 others yielded to the "no contract, no work" logic of rebellious bands of roving pickets.

In Eastern Ohio, Northern West Virginia, Alabama and Kentucky over 33,500 rank and filers remained away from the pits. Yet elsewhere in the nation nearly 327,000 bituminous miners swung picks in the second day of the three-day week imposed last Dec. 5.

Although this was the third consecutive week in which scattered strikes have been concentrated in the five-state area, UMW President John L. Lewis hasn't taken any outward action. On Jan. 11 Lewis "suggested" that his union members resume production.

Since then, district leaders of the UMW have tried unsuccessfully to launch back-to-work movements.

Sources in the coal industry still believe the strike technique is part of the UMW's plan to win a new contract in an eight-month battle with big coal operators and steel firms.

Herbert Out

CLEVELAND, Jan. 24—Thomas J. Herbert, former governor of Ohio, announced today that he will not be a candidate for the state's highest office this year.

ONE OF three Russian fishing ships reported to have appeared in the Caribbean area, where the U. S. will stage military maneuvers soon, the Chika is shown going through the Panama Canal. She was headed from the Baltic to the north Pacific. Recent rumors told of Soviet ships, equipped with powerful radios, being seen in the "war games" section.

Cold Sunday Is Expected

Weatherman Sees Low Readings Ahead

Of Man Winter may have a frigid Sunday and ready for delivery later this week, but as of Tuesday he was keeping Ohioans in the dark, under heavy rain-soaked clouds.

The man with an eye on the sky last week predicted that frigid blasts were due any hour, but his prediction flopped. This time, however, he declared flatly that Central Ohio's long-awaited Winter was just around the corner.

A generally cloudy condition throughout the state is expected to continue well into Wednesday with scattered showers adding their gray strokes to an already bleak weather picture.

"Thunderstorms are predicted for some parts of Ohio," the forecaster said, "but the rainfall scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday will be occasional and scattered rather than continuous and severe."

Rain has also been forecast for areas in Illinois and Indiana which were recently flooded by the rain-swelled Wabash and Ohio rivers.

GUSTY WINDS from the northwest whipped blizzards into the Dakotas and Minnesota Tuesday, while freezing rains glazed highways in Wisconsin and Michigan.

The mercury Tuesday was expected to climb to high points varying from the mid-thirties to upper-sixties in Ohio, the weatherman continued. Lows will be between 35 and 60 degrees.

The dispiriting fog that covered the northern sections of the state late Monday grounded planes at Cleveland Airport and threw airlines behind schedule.

The weather bureau's five-day forecast for Ohio follows:

"Showers Wednesday and again about Saturday totaling one quarter to three quarters of an inch. Mild, followed by colder Wednesday or Wednesday night and colder over Thursday. Somewhat warmer Friday or Saturday and much colder Sunday."

The weather bureau in Chicago said local blizzard conditions (Continued on Page Two)

Woman Swallows Pins And Needles

DETROIT, Jan. 24—Doctors prepared to operate today on a 19-year-old Detroit mother who swallowed 30 straight pins, six safety pins and eight needles.

Mrs. Carolyn Hutchinson walked into a hospital last night and said she had come to die. She explained she swallowed the pins and needles because she was dependent upon the annulment of her marriage by her mother.

RAF Expects Jet Bomber Replace B-29

Order Of 200 U.S. Superforts To Be Slashed To Mere 20

LONDON, Jan. 24—Mass production of a speedy, maneuverable Royal Air Force jet-bomber is moving so swiftly that Britain's allotment of American B-29s under Atlantic Pact aid is expected to be slashed severely.

Informed London circles say that originally, Britain was to get 200 of the mighty U. S. Superfortresses. But now, with the jet-bomber program in high gear, it is predicted that Britain will settle—willingly—for only 20 of the conventional bombers.

The new plane which British aeronautical experts are "sold on" is the Canberra twin-jet bomber. By the end of 1950—a much earlier date than the air ministry predicted—the Royal Air Force will be equipped with Canberras.

The Canberra is the first jet bomber to be produced in Britain. Exact details as to performance—speed, range, and bombload—are top-secret. But operational trials have far exceeded expectations.

NOW IN QUANTITY production by the English Electric Co., the Canberra is powered by two Rolls-Royce axial flow gas turbines. The plane has a clean, streamlined shape, accentuated by long, slim engine nacelles.

The broad bubble-canopy over the cockpit is almost moulded into the shape of the fuselage to complete the streamlining.

The Canberra is designed for operation at high altitudes and at speeds near the velocity of sound.

The 65-foot long aircraft, with a wingspan of 64 feet, carries no defensive armaments. It depends solely on maneuverability and speed to outlast enemy fighters.

In fact, at a public air display last Fall, observers who noted the Canberra in action were amazed by its performance, which would have done credit to a jet fighter.

With such a potentially formidable plane at its command, the RAF is said to feel that 200 B-29s will be largely in the nature of excess baggage. Perhaps air ministry planners had in mind the strange run of B-29 accidents in the U. S. late last year, and the subsequent grounding of Superforts which had been under "maximum operating stress."

IN ANY CASE, the 20 planes which the RAF will receive, will be used solely for giving British crews experience in high altitude flying. They will probably come from U. S. Air Force squadrons already in England.

In all likelihood, the American crews released by the transfer will return to the U. S. and bring the newer B-50 "atomic" bombers to Britain.

A docket crowded with criminal cases is delaying hearing of the waterworks suit against Circleville in Ross County common pleas court.

According to Judge Howard Goldsberry, the case will not be heard until his docket, overloaded with criminal cases, including one first degree murder suit, is cleared.

The judge said Tuesday he had no way of knowing when that would be.

Nevertheless, local defense attorneys, Ray Davis and City Solicitor George Gerhardt, said they would go to Chillicothe sometime this week in an attempt to get the date for hearing set down as soon as possible.

The case was switched to Ross County after Judge William D. Radcliff in Pickaway County common pleas court granted a change of venue to Attorneys Tom A. Renick and Joseph W. Adkins, who seek to collect $27,500 in fees from the city.

THE TWO attorneys claim the fees for their part in the establishment of a municipal water system here.

Renick and Adkins filed petitions in November, 1948, stating they defended the city in five courts and brought about two citywide elections in answer to referendum petitions circulated by the Ohio Water Service Co., former owners of the waterworks.

Renick's petition alleges he assisted in saving the city $50,000 by procuring an interest rate of two and three-quarter percent on a portion of a bond issue passed by city council to purchase the water system.

He claims to have procured a two percent interest rate on the balance. The bonds were issued through the bonding firm of Stiffel, Nicolaus and Co., Inc., of Chicago.

Princess Said 'Good' Now; She Seeks U.S. Visit

LONDON, Jan. 24—Princess Margaret, who has added some unconventional footnotes to the royal book of etiquette, is playing the part of "good girl" now to achieve her fondest ambition—a trip to the U. S. to "see the sights."

Court gossip says that the gay, 19-year-old princess is determined to "endure" a spell of relative quietness to win King George's consent for a journey she hopes would include stops at famed New York night spots like "21" and the Stork Club.

And her friends are laying unofficial "even money" bets that the irrepressible Margaret gets to the U. S. and Canada before the end of 1950, possibly in late Summer when the London social season is over.

Margaret reportedly has "cooled down" considerably because of her desire for the American tour, and because of a friendly warning from her father that her recent escapades created some wrong impressions and a spate of gossip.

THE PRINCESS' departures from royal rules included smoking a cigarette in public, taking a five-minute ride on a bus, and dancing an unruly version of the "can-can" with Sharran (Continued on Page Two)

Things are shaping up for a ding-dong battle in the Pickaway County primary election next May.

The probability loomed Tuesday that four men—two Democrats and two Republicans—would be out after part nominations for county commissioner.

Latest to show interest in the commissioner race is Harry E. Montelius, prominent Pickaway Township farmer.

If his petition is filed, Montelius will be pitted in the May primaries against Lyman E. Penn, incumbent, who filed for nomination on the Republican ticket last week.

Circulating petitions for the Democratic nomination are Harley Mace of New Holland and Troy W. White of Pickaway Township.

Look At All The Exemptions

CLEVELAND, Jan. 24—Albert Ball, a bachelor, not only will take the lady—he also will take her 12 children.

The 37-year-old truck driver will support the brood on his $55 a week, but he's not worried. "I always loved children," he said. His bride-to-be is Doris McLe Daniels, 34, whose first wedding will be set aside tomorrow by a divorce decree.

GOP LEADERS WANT TWO MEASURES

House Dems Back Truman's Plan For Package Tax Cut

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—House Democrats backed President Truman's billion-dollar "one package" tax bill today with a warning against letting excise cuts get out of hand.

One Democrat on the ways and means committee cautioned that a free-for-all on excises could cost the government $1.5 billion in lost revenue.

Chairman Doughton, (D) N. C., said the tax-writing committee will meet in a few days to tackle the assignment which members believe will take several months.

The consensus of tax authorities in House and Senate was that Mr. Truman will get some reductions in excise levies, with off-setting revenue increases through plugging of tax law loopholes.

BUT THERE was little firm opinion that corporation, estate and gift taxes would be boosted to provide an additional $1 billion in revenue.

The President asked for both and warned that he will veto any excise cuts not accompanied by other increases to compensate for this lost revenue. This warning provoked vehement charges by Republicans that the President was trying to "dictate" tax legislation.

GOP leaders and Sen. George, (D) Ga., Senate finance chairman, want an immediate, separate excise cutting bill. But supporters of Mr. Truman, including Doughton, want to play safe by keeping losses and gains in the same bill.

Rep. Forand, (D) R. I., a ways and means member, conceded that the President's call for reduction of "excessive depletion exemptions" favoring oil and mining interests spells trouble in the House committee.

House Speaker Rayburn, (D) Tex., whose home state oil industry would be directly affected, took exception to this part of the President's tax message.

HE SAID he was for the oil depletion allowance "as it has always been."

Forand called the message a "very logical" program. In it the President insisted that reductions in excise levies on non-luxury items like transportation, long-distance telephone and telegraph, and retail goods be limited strictly to savings made possible by plugging loopholes in the tax law.

Solon Says Gals Should Fight Too

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—Sen. Kefauver, (D) Tenn., thinks that if the "equal rights for women" constitutional amendment is adopted, women may be asked to shoulder a rifle in front line trenches in event of another war.

He said that equal responsibilities accompany equal rights. He contended that a housewife might be drafted while her husband "is left at home to take care of the children."

Sen. Cain, (R) Wash., replied that the Russians were the most realistic people in World War II. He said that "if a woman had better eyesight for sniping, a sniper she became pronto without regard to sex."

Robinson Signs

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—Jackie Robinson, the National League's most valuable player in 1949, signed his 1950 Brooklyn Dodger contract today at a reported figure of $35,000—nearly double the amount he got last year.

Tie Vote Cast To Keep Union At Container

Production and maintenance workers in Circleville Container Corp. of America will continue to be represented by the United Mine Workers union.

The workers met in the local plant Monday afternoon to decide whether they would continue under UMW or switch to the American Federation of Labor's Brotherhood of Papermakers.

A count and recount of the ballots showed that a total of 112 men voted during the afternoon—56 for the change, 56 against it.

Leonard Buskirk, president of the UMW affiliation in the plant, Tuesday declared that the tie vote meant that the UMW would continue to represent the local workmen.

"The issue," Buskirk said, "was to determine whether we would change."

"In order to effect the change, a majority of 'yes' votes was needed. The tie vote failed to provide the majority."

The election was sponsored by the National Labor Relations Board and was supervised by a representative of the NLRB.

The UMW union involved here is District 50, John L. Lewis' famed "catch-all" union.

Policy Slip Eater Nabbed

CLEVELAND, Jan. 24—Henry Jackson, 60, may be of the opinion that "a policy slip a day keeps the cops away," but his theory backfired last night.

Jackson escaped charges of possessing numbers slips twice last year by eating the evidence, according to Deputy Inspector Michael J. Blackwell.

When Blackwell's men spotted Jackson last night he again started chewing on a wad of the slips, but the patrolmen noticed more policy tabs in his shoes.

He was arrested and charged with possession of policy slips.

Chrysler Corp. Facing Walkout

DETROIT, Jan. 24—Eighty-nine thousand auto workers in 25 Chrysler Corp. plants will walk off their jobs at 10 a. m. tomorrow barring unexpected developments at a last-ditch negotiating session here today.

Threat of a strike that would paralyze a nationwide network of Chrysler plants hung heavy over the conference table as union and company negotiators met in an almost hopeless effort to settle their pension differences before tomorrow's deadline.

December Increase 'Justified'

Fairless Outlines Industry's Stand

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—Benjamin F. Fairless, U. S. Steel president, told Congress today that his company and the rest of the steel industry are not earning a fair return despite recent price increases.

Fairless testified before the joint congressional economic committee that the December increase in steel prices was more than justified by the cost of pensions to steel workers. He declared:

"In my opinion, United States Steel has not made a fair return either on its sales or investment at any time during the last 20 years."

When Sen. Mahoney, (D) Wyo., asked him if he believed "that other steel companies are not making a fair return," Fairless said that was his opinion.

O'Mahoney wanted to know what the industrialist considered a "fair return," but Fairless said he couldn't define it any further than as "more than we're getting."

THE SENATOR asked Fairless laughingly what steel price he was planning next year to correct "this poor record." Fairless replied:

"We're not planning any price increase next year."

According to Fairless, Big Steel's earnings in 1948 were 5.2 percent on sales and 6.5 percent on investment.

He declared that despite increased pay to employees and improved products to purchasers, stockholders "have received very inadequate returns on their investments."

Fairless declared that the steel corporation favors "pension and insurance benefits for (Continued on Page Two)

Lausche Weighs Decision On Special Call

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Governor Lausche will announce tonight his decision on whether to have a special session of the Ohio Legislature.

Following a two and a quarter hour meeting with his cabinet, the governor said his decision will be released for publication at 7 p. m.

Lausche appeared in excellent spirits after a breakup of the conference, the second to be called within a week to discuss the state's financial outlook.

He refused to say, however, whether his thinking still followed that of last week when six of seven Democratic legislative leaders advised him they believed there was no need for a special meeting of the General Assembly.

At that time the governor gave every indication that he too believed the legislators need not be called to amend the state's election laws to conform to the new office-type ballot.

December Increase 'Justified'

(Continued from Page One) Our employees. Our earnings, however, are not sufficient to permit us to absorb the large costs involved. That is the reason we raised prices."

O'Mahoney said that Fairless was called upon to "justify" the increase in steel prices.

Fairless said that the pension program, part of Big Steel's new contract with the CIO Steelworkers Union, is estimated at a cost of $67.5 million a year, plus increased social security taxes of $3.4 million a year.

The steel company president said:

"These costs alone are $3.88 per ton and more than offset the $3.32 per ton which we hope to obtain from our price increases."

In addition to pension and insurance costs, Fairless said, coal costs mounted $20 million in the last year, and freight and fuel oil cost $13 million more.

FAIRLESS attacked estimates of the corporation's long-term income "based on one-quarter or one-half year earnings at an extraordinary high rate of production" as a basis for price quotations.

He also declared that while the workers have benefitted by wage increases, others had not. He said:

"We did not believe in December, nor do we believe now, that there is any good reason why we should sacrifice the income of stockholders and the interests of the business as a whole in order to provide additional benefits for our employees."

"Stockholders, as well as employees, are entitled to consideration when determinations are made as to how the enterprise is to be operated."

Game Refuge Trapping Set

Clarence Francis, county game protector, Tuesday said he expects to see extensive rabbit trapping on county game refuges in the near future.

"It'll be legal, though," Francis said. "I'm going to do the trapping."

He explained that he will catch the bunnies who escaped the hunters' guns last fall by running to the refuges. Francis will catch the cotton-tails in "live" traps and release them in various parts of the county.

Ross County Still Sees No Hope For Local Case

Adkin's petition, virtually the same as Renick's, asks $12,500. It states he was hired by the city from Jan. 1, 1946, to June 4, 1947, six months less than the time spent by Renick.

The pending suit apparently is the only obstacle to the sale of municipal bonds totalling $90,000, since the bonding company reportedly will not issue them until a non-litigation certificate can be passed.

The original bond issue was passed by public ballot for $550,000, of which $420,000 was for the water works. Later an additional $40,000 was authorized to take care of improvements needed. Part of the $90,000 left is in unsold bonds.

Vandenberg Says Formosa Issue Should Go UN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Sen. Vandenberg, (R) Mich., is considering the idea of proposing that the future of Formosa be settled by the United Nations in order to give Formosans "some say in their own destiny."

The Republican foreign policy leader probably will sound out State Secretary Acheson on this approach today when the cabinet member testifies again behind closed doors of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Vandenberg in discussing the future of Formosa, which is considered a Chinese territory under the Cairo Declaration, said:

"I can't help feel that the people of Formosa are entitled to some say in their own destiny. But I don't know exactly how it would be best to proceed."

One avenue the senator has in mind is that of submitting the matter of control over Formosa to the United Nations.

Vandenberg is trying to sound out opinion on this because such a course might bow down any decision in the current Soviet-U. S. wrangle over Nationalist China's membership in the UN.

Army Enlistment Aides Schedule Visits Here

Master Sergeant Robert Balthis has been placed in charge of recruiting for the U. S. Army and Air Force in Circleville.

The sergeant and Cpl. Robert Cramer, assistant, will open the Circleville recruitment office in the Veterans of Foreign Wars home from 10 a. m. until 2 p. m. each Tuesday and Thursday.

Balthis explained that no new Army enlistments are to be accepted during January, but that some may be enlisted during February. He said that a waiting list will be drawn up and that those heading the list will have first crack at enlistment when new orders come through.

The recruiter is stationed regularly in Lancaster except for his duty in Circleville twice a week. His office there is in Lancaster National Bank building.

Color Change Of Bills Asked

Dance Masters Trying To Sell Square-Dancing

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24.—Seems like its old-fashioned anymore not to be old-fashioned.

In fact, when some 200 members of the Dance Masters of Ohio gathered in serious conclave here last weekend, their principal concern seemed to be how to teach square-dancing to a rising generation.

Seems like the old-fashioned frolic is sweeping the country anew.

One teacher, Bill Cassidy of Alliance, appeared to have the problem licked.

But then, every teacher doesn't have a 73-year-old father to haul out of retirement, like Bill has, to help him out.

Lowell Stone of Elyria was instructing the instructors—on accounts it's serious, this square-dancing thing.

Said Clement Brown of Akron, in what seemed a pretty general expression of sentiment:

"They go for it big in New York, Chicago and the West Coast. It's good for social gatherings, but it'll never take in night clubs—their floors are too small."

NEW POLIO PATTERN

The pattern of infantile paralysis incidence has changed in recent years. No longer do epidemics seem to strike only in given areas. Their savagery is felt almost everywhere. Last year virtually no section of the nation was left unscathed, as this great gripper swept the nation with unprecedented fury. The grim scorecard showed more than 41,000 stricken by this disease—the highest total in the nation's history. What does 1950 hold in store? We cannot afford the luxury of unpreparedness. Give what you can to the current March of Dimes appeal of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Give generously.

Another petition was filed by Charne Lee Carter against Paul E. Carter of Williamsport. Gross neglect of duty is charged.

According to the petition, the couple married Dec. 20, 1947 in Mt. Sterling, have no children. The wife asks the court to grant her the household furniture and to restore her former name, Charne Lee Stinson.

Third petition was filed by Helen M. Graham against Charles A. Graham of York street. Gross neglect is charged.

The petition states the couple married Dec. 1936 in Greenup, Ky. They have two children. The wife asks the court to grant her custody of the children.

Tip Says Thugs Tried Flight From Boston

Four ex-convicts were arrested—two in Southton, Mass., and two in Boston, and police said the arrests were "important" in their efforts to trace the bandits.

Arrest of the two men in Southton followed a tip flashed from New York by Lt. James V. Crowley of Boston and State Police Inspector James F. Conniff.

One of the men was questioned a year ago in connection with the gangland slaying of Robert Holmes in a Back Bay hotel. Crowley said he and the other man, a farmer, had "knowledge of the Brink's job."

The other two men in custody were a Dorchester locksmith and a Back Bay man, identified only as a local underworld figure.

Bulgar Chief Dies At 72 After Long Illness

SOFIA, Jan. 24.—Bulgarian Premier Vasil Petrov Kolarov died yesterday after a long illness.

The death of the 72-year-old veteran Communist came six months after his election by the Bulgarian parliament to succeed his long-time friend, Georgi Dimitrov.

Dimitrov died in Russia on July 2, also after an extended illness.

The Russians attributed Dimitrov's death to diabetes.

Kolarov's death came at a time when relations between Bulgaria and the United States were strained almost to the breaking point.

Bulgaria has demanded the recall of Donald A. Heath, U. S. minister to Sofia, and the United States has threatened to cut off diplomatic relations completely unless Bulgaria withdraws its demand.

Kolarov and Dimitrov not only led the Communist fight in Bulgaria through the years but were closely associated in the work of the Communist International in the 1920s and 1930s.

The Communist assumption of power in Bulgaria in the closing days of World War II catapulted both to the top.

Kolarov served as general secretary of the Comintern in 1922-24 while Dimitrov was a member of the Comintern's executive committee from 1921 through 1935.

AVOID OVERSTRAIN AND EXPOSURE TO COLD AND DAMP

There are many unknown and many known causes for rheumatism and arthritis in one or more of their varied forms but often the causes are avoidable. Chief among the avoidable causes are injury resulting from carelessness, general lowering of resistance thru ill-health and careless living, neglect of teeth, overstrain of muscles and joints, carelessness about drafts particularly on back of neck, and perhaps, above all, needless exposure to cold and wet. Don't take unnecessary chances. If you even remotely suspect rheumatism or arthritis as the cause of muscular pain, let your doctor diagnose before the affliction becomes too far advanced. For control of pain the use of CITRU-MIX TABLETS may be indicated. (Note: CITRU-MIX TABLETS are an adult preparation and not intended nor recommended for children. Rheumatic fever in children may easily affect the heart and result in premature death!)

ABOUT BIGGER BOMBS

IF THE principles of the original atomic bomb had been discovered in a time of peace instead of during a world war, the controversy around it probably would have been something like that which now has arisen over the proposal to try to make a vastly more powerful atomic bomb, exploding hydrogen instead of uranium. It is not a simple thing to decide whether or not to embark on such a significant adventure. The foremost argument of those who favor the adventure is that we ought to try to beat Russia to this super-punch. In such authoritative information as has been made public there is no suggestion that research along this new avenue would have any peaceful usefulness. It is indicated that the hydrogen explosion would be so powerful, and so difficult to control that its only use would be for the blanket destruction and mass murder of war.

If that is the case, the decision certainly should be made to rest on a deliberate, thoughtful debate, free from haste, hysteria and frenzy. There is much to be said for the proposal that this new development should be the basis for a new attempt to reach an understanding with Russia. The cost in money of the hydrogen bomb project, whether it would be two hundred millions or two billions, even the cost in diversion of time and energy from other atomic research, would be trifling compared with the deliberate risk involved in turning our great atomic energy program into a channel the only outlet for which would be in war.

HOUSES TO RENT

WORD from Washington is that a scheme is being cooked up to provide rental housing for the middle-income family, through assistance to cooperative rental projects. There used to be an idea that the solid middle-income family should own a home, get it paid for during the productive years of the breadwinner, and have the security of a certain roof overhead in the declining years.

It's still a feasible procedure. It's still a good idea, and thousands of young Americans are acting on it. But a nation as short of all kinds of shelter as this one was after depression and war had practically put an end to building for fifteen years, needs, for a while, all the shelter it can get.

No rental projects, however, no matter how good, should dim the eyes of Americans toward home-owning. There's no satisfaction like it.

The enviable baggage chores of the piccolo-player are in for some competition from the new folding bass fiddle, no less. What next?

These Days

Parts of the world that never bothered us are suddenly coming upon our horizon. We have no more become familiar with such a place as Formosa than the Caspian Sea looms upon us. For it is in the environs of the Caspian that Soviet Russia is experimenting with the atomic bomb for vast purposes.

Kenneth deCourcy, whose newsletter is so often correct in details which seem unavailable to others, cabled recently from England about the Davidoff plan to which Andrei Vishinsky made reference before the United Nations.

M. J. Davidoff, according to DeCourcy, devised a plan for the diversion of two Russian rivers, by blasting a mountain range, with the object of raising the level of the Caspian Sea.

Some of the most important events in history can be traced to the lowering of the level of the Caspian Sea which is now reported to be nearly 90 feet lower than what is assumed to have been its highest point. For instance, Alexander the Great fought for years to keep the Nomads, as they were regarded, out of his empire and to do it, he conquered a vast territory. These so-called Nomads were probably pushed out of their lands by the drying up of areas due to the lowering of the Caspian level. The Davidoff plan, which according to DeCourcy is in actual operation, would bring into cultivation some 20,000,000 hectares of land or nearly 50 million acres.

The Russians, under this plan, expect to build on the Caspian the largest hydro-electric plant in the world.

Precisely why costly plutonium has to be used instead of TNT or dynamite, I cannot explain. Blowing a channel through a mountain for a river may or may not be more difficult than building a tunnel through a mountain for a railroad. What is interesting is that the Russians are developing the Caspian-Aral region and that they may turn the Karakum desert into a rich agricultural region.

This would alter geography, opening to agriculture a once rich but now arid region which in ancient times was part of the Persian empire and sent great migrations of peoples into other parts of Asia and even Europe. Raising the level of the sea means that a large area of land will be covered by its waters.

If the Davidoff plan is practical, the political effects will be enormous. A large Russian population could then be planted on the borders of Iran and Afghanistan. Following the Cossack procedures, this population would be simultaneously agricultural and military. Its standard of living would be higher than that of the peoples of Afghanistan who are mostly tribesmen and of Northern Iran.

Apparently, the Russians also plan to industrialize this area, or otherwise the Davidoff plan would not include the great hydro-electric plant. Such industrialization could affect the future of Iran and even lead to its conquest.

Condition With Varied Causes That Many People Suffer From

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

PROBABLY no other condition affects so many people as constipation, and there are few conditions which have more varied causes. These range from the simple "bad habit" class to actual organic damage to some part of the digestive system.

In the majority of cases, constipation is probably due to a simple and easily corrected cause, such as failure to take enough general exercise. Other causes in this same category are failure to drink enough fluids and the eating of too much starchy food, so that not enough bulk or roughage is supplied to the intestine.

Mental Factors

Psychological or mental factors also contribute to constipation. Nervousness is a cause, as is fatigue or over-tiredness.

Some people produce constipation in a severe form by their very efforts to correct it. There is no surer way of making this condition permanent than the continued excessive use of cathartics, laxatives, or enemas.

After a confining illness, during which little or no exercise can be taken, constipation is pretty much the rule.

It must be remembered, however, that there are other and more serious causes for constipation.

Actual changes in the bowel and surrounding structures may be responsible, in some cases. For example, such things as hemorrhoids or piles, which are dilated veins around the lower opening of the bowel, and fissures or cracks in its lining membrane may lead to constipation. When these disorders are cleared up, the constipation disappears.

Gallbladder Trouble

Sometimes the trouble is due to a disturbance of the gallbladder. Constipation will not be relieved in these cases until the gallbladder disorder is overcome. The scarce flow of bile from the gallbladder into the intestine leads to the development of dry, hard stools. Treatment in such cases consists of the giving of bile salts, and often this in itself will relieve the disorder.

The person who has constipation is in need of careful study by a physician to determine the source of the difficulty. Then, and only then, can proper treatment be carried out. Above all, he should avoid self treatment.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. I.: What causes spasms of the bowel?

Answer: In most cases this is due to some type of nervous disturbance. It may be due to the abuse of laxatives or enemas.

CHAPTER FORTY-TWO

GERRY and Alicia waited until the door leading from the hall to the rear of the house closed. As he moved toward her across the room they heard the station wagon pull away.

"This is very dangerous, Gerry." "For you, yes. And I'm sorry. But I had to see you."

"For you, too, I'm afraid." "It's all right for me. Susan knows I'm here."

"Does she? I wasn't thinking of her, though." She was silent a moment. Then, "Lester told me about today."

"He did? Well, that saves time for me." He looked at her, all his face sharp and alive and angry as it had been when she first knew him. "He's on to things, isn't he," he said.

"You mean..." "I mean he knows that we..."

He checked himself. "That you," he corrected, "feel an interest in me."

She smiled. "The way you started to say it first is the way it really is. Why not admit it, Gerry?"

He made an impatient gesture. "However it is, it gives him an edge!"

"Of course." "He's having a wonderful time," Gerry's tone rasped, "playing a cat and mouse game with me because of it."

"I can imagine." "But when he gets tired or bored, or jealous enough—" He made a scoping, flinging motion with his arms.

She nodded. "He stepped close to her. His mind had cleared on the way over here and he knew that if he went back to Susan and apologized, she would forgive him. She was extraordinary that way. But things might be different between them. He was not sure about that. He was only sure that it was much more difficult for him to win a battle as a gentleman in a drawing room than a battle as a vagabond in the streets. The tactics required were not the same and he had not had enough training in the former. He had not learned how to keep cool. And now only Alicia could help him. Only Alicia could make it possible for him to go back to Susan with the humble apology he had half-planned. Would she be that generous? But she had been before."

He said, "What I want to know—what I want you to tell me, is how the Judge ever got Lester to hire me in the first place."

"There is another reason, though."

It was Lester speaking, and Alicia and Gerry, springing apart, whirled to face him. He stood in the wide doorway to the hall, his police dog, Max, on a leash he held in his hand.

"I hired you to keep an eye on me. I hired you so that I would know, through the days, at least, just where you were, Mr. Barton, and what you were doing."

He advanced a step or two into the room, the great dog straining ahead of him, growling menacingly. "And now I see I shall have to keep track of you through the nights, too." He smiled faintly.

"Do you think Judge King will like your being here, Mr. Barton? Do you think your fiancée will be pleased to have me tell her I discovered you embracing my wife on an evening when I was out? Supposed to be out," he corrected.

"I'm sorry." "You're hurting me, Gerry."

"I'm sorry." He slipped his arms around her and drew her to him. "If you know what this means to me," he begged.

"I do know what this means to you. But it's no good, my dear."

"No good?" "No. The man was a fanatic. Judge King found out he'd been in a psychopathic ward once and the whole thing was dropped. It could have been ugly but it wasn't. I suppose," she finished, "Lester hired you out of gratitude to Steven King for that. I can't think of any other reason."

"Think!" he said, taking her by the arm. "What's the Judge got on him? When did Lester ever do something on the shady side?"

When did he ever get into a scrape that Steven King had to get him out of? Think?

"I'm trying to, but I can't remember a thing. Lester's clever, you know. And he always gets good advice." She stopped, frowning slightly. "Wait a minute. Yes. Yes, there was something. I vaguely remember now."

He caught her other arm and shook her gently.

"Go on."

She said slowly, "It's come back to me. But it wasn't anything, Gerry. I mean, it turned out to be nothing. Some man Lester had fired once came back at him with serious charges. At least they seemed serious though I forget exactly."

"Think!"

"You're hurting me, Gerry."

"I'm sorry." He slipped his arms around her and drew her to him. "If you know what this means to me," he begged.

"I do know what this means to you. But it's no good, my dear."

"No good?" "No. The man was a fanatic. Judge King found out he'd been in a psychopathic ward once and the whole thing was dropped. It could have been ugly but it wasn't. I suppose," she finished, "Lester hired you out of gratitude to Steven King for that. I can't think of any other reason."

"There is another reason, though."

It was Lester speaking, and Alicia and Gerry, springing apart, whirled to face him. He stood in the wide doorway to the hall, his police dog, Max, on a leash he held in his hand.

"I hired you to keep an eye on me. I hired you so that I would know, through the days, at least, just where you were, Mr. Barton, and what you were doing."

He advanced a step or two into the room, the great dog straining ahead of him, growling menacingly. "And now I see I shall have to keep track of you through the nights, too." He smiled faintly.

"Do you think Judge King will like your being here, Mr. Barton? Do you think your fiancée will be pleased to have me tell her I discovered you embracing my wife on an evening when I was out? Supposed to be out," he corrected.

"I'm sorry." "You're hurting me, Gerry."

Racial Discrimination Is Rapped In Paper Read Here Before Monday Club

Negro's Status Is Outlined

"America," said Mrs. James Reichelderfer when she gave a paper on the American Negro before Monday club, "is a rainbow blending of many colors and creeds and cultures, a promise that diverse peoples may live together happily and successfully with personal liberty and national solidarity."

Continuing the program for the year, "Nation of Nations," Mrs. Reichelderfer warned that although some of us might think of America as owned by a single racial stock or cultural group America is the home of all and many different races who came seeking freedom and opportunity and stayed to build a great Democracy.

"The American Negro," Mrs. Reichelderfer continued, "is one of the exciting strands of the New World rainbow."

Mrs. Reichelderfer stated that the American Negro is gradually advancing his status alongside his brother races in the United States. She reminded her audience that Oberlin was the first educational institution in the United States to admit women on equal terms with men and Negroes on equal terms with whites. Wilberforce, near Xenia, one of the best Negro institutions in the country and is in part supported by state funds, according to Mrs. Reichelderfer. She added that a Negro was president of one of the chief student organizations at Ohio State university last year and that a Negro was head of the Young Women's Christian Association.

Mrs. Reichelderfer gave a list of American Negroes who had achieved fame in various fields of endeavor.

Included were Dr. Ralph Bunch of United Nations fame; Marion Anderson, distinguished singer; Walter White, author and veteran lynching foe; Mary McLeod Bethune, founder of Bethune-Cookman college; W. E. B. DuBois, brilliant writer of caustic classic English; Charles S. Johnson, head of Social Science Institute of Fisk university; the late George Washington Carver, scientist and pioneer in field of agriculture; Mordecai Johnson, president of Howard university, Washington D. C.; and Langston Hughes, poet.

Mrs. Reichelderfer concluded by touching upon the lamentable race prejudice existing in certain sections of the country.

"There will never be a solution of the Negro problem satisfactory to everybody," Mrs. Reichelderfer said, "but improvements must continue if American Democracy itself is to survive. Discrimination, not only contaminates the Negro community, it contaminates the white as well."

Mrs. Arthur Wagar sang three spirituals after Mrs. Reichelderfer's paper had been presented. They included "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord," arranged by H. T. Burleigh; "Sweet Little Jesus Boy," by Robert MacGinsey; and "Run, Mary, Run," by David Guine.

Chemists hold there are only four fundamental odors, fragrant, burnt, acid and caprylic, which is the odor of evil-smelling chemicals.

Bulb-Forcing Is Detailed To Garden Club

Two speakers were on the program when Mt. Pleasant Garden Club of Kingston was entertained in the home of Mrs. D. H. Dreisbach Monday evening. Mrs. Wayne DeLong talked on "Bulb Forcing" and Mrs. Ralph Francis spoke on "Forcing Tree branches and Shrubs."

Preceding the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Leo Davis, president, members answered rollcall by giving the name of a bulb they planned to force, or make bloom ahead of schedule.

It was voted that the club purchase fencing to protect the flower bed planted with bulbs in the school yard.

Mrs. Mark Moran provided the music on the program. She sang "My Garden of Memories" and "Trees."

A double African violet was awarded Mrs. Burt Jackson as winner of the year book decoration contest.

Mrs. Charles Elkjer assisted Mrs. Dreisbach in serving the 16 members and five guests a dessert course during the social hour.

Germany's 'Dangerous' Spot Cited

Need For Small Army Is Talked

BERLIN, Jan. 24—The rising chorus of German demands for a standing army of moderate size was strengthened today by the voice of Chancellor Dr. Konrad Adenauer.

In his conversations with French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman for solution of present European problems involving or affecting Germany, Adenauer stressed Germany's allegedly "dangerous" position as buffer state in the bulletless conflict between East and West.

He chose the occasion of Schuman's visit to go on record with what undoubtedly is a German national sentiment—the desire for some sort of an armed force even though it is rigidly controlled by international authorities and pledged to non-aggression.

Regardless of the rights or wrongs of such an attitude, there is no question that the Germans have a feeling of insecurity that cannot help but make itself felt in other countries.

VIRTUALLY throughout all of recorded time, the Germans always have had some sort of an army.

It is perfectly true that it has not always been wisely used. As a matter of fact, it usually has been an aggressive force rather than a protective one.

But the fact is that the German people have a military tradition that is centuries old. The disastrous defeat of Adolf Hitler made it necessary that the Western Allies should attempt to eliminate not only the army but the tradition as well.

The experiment has not been too satisfactory.

Experiences after World War I show that it is absolutely impossible to internationalize a country like Germany or to change in a simple matter of years customs that have come down through the centuries.

German disarmament after 1918 led inevitably to creation of an illegal army known as the black reichswehr. Every one knew of its existence, including the victorious Allies, but nothing was done about it.

The result was that the moment Hitler got his opportunity, he called his military machine out into the open and the dragon's teeth scattered virtually beneath the noses of occupational officials sprouted into a magnificent army.

Legion Fights Vets Plan In Hoover Report

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24 — Ohio Legionnaires were recruited today for a campaign aimed at the rejection of the Hoover Commission's proposals for the veterans Administration.

Paul M. Herbert, former Ohio lieutenant governor and state commander of the Legion, launched the campaign here Sunday at an "emergency session" of 800 Legion chiefs. Herbert said:

"Blank check" indorsement of the Hoover Commission proposals for reorganization of government is asking for dismemberment of the Veterans Administration and anything except economy and efficiency in veteran affairs."

Herbert recalled that Charles G. Dawes in 1921 urged the creation of an independent agency for veteran affairs and that President Hoover, in 1930, backed the creation of the Veterans Administration. He added:

"I can't believe Mr. Hoover knew the contents of the Hoover Commission subcommittee's recommendations on veteran affairs."

Herbert urged Legionnaires to "go home and fight against ignorance" and asserted that proponents of the Hoover economy package are doing so "without knowing what is in the report."

False Teeth Thief Sought

CHICAGO, Jan. 24 — Frustrated burglars who took a Chicagoan's false teeth were sought today by police.

The burglars were prevented from entering the home of Charles Curry by a catch on a bathroom window. But they took Curry's false teeth, which he had left in a water glass on the outer window sill.

Later the teeth were found—still in the glass—in a nearby alleyway.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

This morning I got the following letter from a Mr. Jake Withers of Sequatchie County, Tennessee:

Dear Mister Billy Rose,

In some recent issues of The Nashville Tennessean I noticed the columns you wrote about educated animals—dogs that could add and subtract, and horses that could figure out cube roots—and so I figured you might be interested in hearing about the smartest four-legged critter in the history of Sequatchie County.

To begin at the beginning, there's a truck farmer down here by the name of Lem Albright who owns a 'possum hound which is as black as the inside of a tar barrel.

Lem calls him "Einstein" and, to hear Lem tell it, the dog has more brains than a passel of professors—and after what happened the other night at our smoked-ham supper and square dance, most everyone in Sequatchie is inclined to agree.

Here's what happened:

A couple of weeks ago, Mrs. Will Purdy's mother, who lived across the line in Grundy County, passed away, and when the family gathered for the divvying up, Will's wife got a gold brooch set with eight diamonds, three of them genuine. Needless to say, she wore the brooch to the smoked-ham supper and square dance, and needless to recount, it got more attention than a team-of-four with their tails trimmed.

EVERYTHING went smooth as molasses at the social until right in the middle of a "swing your partner" when Mrs. Purdy let out a screech and fainted dead away. And when they brought her around, she began hollering for someone to lock the doors because her brooch had been stolen from right off her chest.

Fortunately, our sheriff was on hand, and after he banged the lid of the piano to get people quiet he said, "Don't nobody leave this room. I hate to say it, but there's a low-down, thiev' crook in our midst, and I'm a-goin' to search every man-jack until I find Mrs. Purdy's brooch."

"Sheriff," said Lem Albright, "I don't think that'll hardly be necessary. My hound Einstein, as you know, is the best-behaved animal in Sequatchie County, but the one thing he can't abide is to have a thief scratch his belly."

"So, sure as shootin', the minute he feels the fingernails of the fella we're after, he'll start in to yowl, and we'll have the thief in no time a-tall."

Some of us began to laugh, but the sheriff took Lem to aside, talked to him a minute, and then banged the piano lid again.

"I don't rightly know whether Lem's notion is going to work," he said, "but there ain't no harm in givin' it a try. I'm goin' to ask him to take Einstein in the next room, and then I want all of you to get in single file and come in one at a time and scratch the hound's belly."

Everybody, including the fiddlers, did as told, and sure enough, twenty minutes later the sheriff pointed at a farmhand as he came out from seeing the hound and said, "It worked, like

Jake said—there's the criminal."

WHEN THE MAN was grabbed and searched, the brooch was found in his pocket, and so, on top of a smoked-ham supper and square dance, there was a running-out-of-town party to top off the evening. And all in all, it was easily the most successful social in a long while.

Next day, when Lem was interviewed by the editor of our paper, he didn't brag much about his hound. "To tell the truth," he said, "the sheriff and me, we wasn't too sure Einstein could spot the criminal, so we helped him out a mite. I rubbed a little soot from the stove on the hound's underside, and every time anyone came out of the room the sheriff looked at his hands. The first person with clean hands figured to be our man, because the thief was a cinch to make believe he was scratchin' Einstein without really touchin' his belly a-tall."

Yrs. truly,
Jake Withers.

Reds Hope For Fall Of Berlin

Yank General Tells Beliefs On Russia

BERLIN, Jan. 24—Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor said today he thinks a new Soviet "physical blockade" of Berlin is "entirely possible" but that the Russians are counting on economic collapse of the city instead.

The U. S. Berlin commandant told a visiting group of American editors that the establishment of the East German government is particularly "menacing" because a "blockade can be imposed by German puppets without a single Soviet bayonet in sight."

Taylor said he also considers it "possible that East German police troops would be used in a putsch on West Berlin if other methods of taking the city fail."

"The Soviets clearly consider Germany the key to control of Europe and Berlin the key to control of Germany. They are determined to capture the city politically. They have not relaxed the pressure the slightest although one blockade failed."

EVIDENCE indicates, Taylor said, that the east zone police army is being expanded and receiving primarily military training.

The American military chief in Berlin said the city "is still blockaded in the economic sense" because the difference in east and west zone mark exchange rates prevents the flow of goods from West Berlin to natural East German markets.

Taylor described Berlin's financial crisis as "extremely acute" and said West Berlin's newspapers and political parties are threatened by money problems.

Economic problems, he said, are "also presenting a constant serious political threat inherent in large-scale unemployment."

"Our big push will be from now until Summer," West Berlin Mayor Ernest Reuter estimated for the editors that "at least 90 percent of the people of East Germany are against the Soviet system."

He also said he doubts that Russia will reimpose the Berlin blockade and feels "sure the Soviets won't resort to war because they are not prepared for war."

Autos Banned In Road Test

LA PLATA, Md., Jan. 24—The often-seen highway sign "trucks prohibited" will be reversed this Spring on a stretch of U. S. Highway 301 near La Plata.

The highway section will be for trucks only, and passenger cars will be routed on a parallel stretch of old road.

It is all in the interests of science. The Maryland highway department seeks to determine the effect of trucks weighing as much as 44,800 pounds on reinforced concrete roads.

Government Ready To Buy Pork Surplus

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—The government is expected this week to go into the pork business.

The Agriculture Department announced last week that it will buy smoked ham, bacon and pork picnic shoulders for distribution to the school lunch program and governmental institutions.

A spokesman said the department will act on offers made of those pork products sometime near the end of this week.

The government's offer to buy came on the heels of dropping hog prices.

The department receives bids each week Monday through Thursday and meat packers making offers will be notified of acceptances before noon Friday.

The farmers' hog prices are to be maintained at 90 percent of parity. This is a fairly difficult thing to do, a spokesman pointed out, in view of the large marketings available.

Meanwhile, the department said that the average market price of barrows and gilts for last week was $15.75. This compares with the hog support guide for the seven markets for that week of $15.50.

Court May Get Cabbie Strike

CINCINNATI, Jan. 24—Cincinnati's three-day-old strike of more than 400 cab drivers appeared headed for the courts today.

The Parkway Taxi Co., whose 150 AFD drivers are not participating in the walkout, may seek an injunction to prevent picketing of its garage.

The strikers, members of an independent union, walked out in a dispute over contract negotiations. They are employed by the Yellow and Ferguson divisions of Taxicabs of Cincinnati, Inc.

Economic problems, he said, are "also presenting a constant serious political threat inherent in large-scale unemployment."

"Our big push will be from now until Summer," West Berlin Mayor Ernest Reuter estimated for the editors that "at least 90 percent of the people of East Germany are against the Soviet system."

STRATOSPHERE COOK'S TOUR Man May Soon Be Flying At Same Speed Of Earth

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—In the market for a Cook's Tour of the stratosphere? Want a ticket for tomorrow?

Care to lunch in Glasgow, Scotland, at noon, tea in Gander, Newfoundland, the same—or almost the same—noon—and dine at over Kodiak, Alaska, at the very same noon?

These among others may be the treats in store for the inveterate traveler of tomorrow if predictions made at a meeting of the Circumnavigators Club in New York come true.

Brig. Gen. Harold Harris, vice-president of American Overseas Airlines, was the expert who told the club members, all of whom have been around the world at least once, about the "ticket for tomorrow."

Harris said that in the field of jet aviation it could be possible in the coming years to fly at the same speed as the rotation of the earth, making it possible to keep up with the movement of the earth in its revolutions around the sun.

It was at this point that Harris said that if the flight around the world were made eastward from

WILLY LEY, noted German rocket expert now an American citizen, said that with the development of jets and rockets a "Cook's Tour of the solar system" is a probable reality sometime in the future.

He added, however: "I am not selling any tickets at the moment."

Col. Thomas Lamphier Jr., famed wartime ace and now president of the Air Force Association, gave the globe-circling club members a graphic example of how fast circumnavigation now is.

Lamphier, who recently set a new record for round-the-world travel speed via commercial airlines, said on the day he left he was talking in Washington with Air Secretary Symington.

Symington was interrupted by a phone call and Lamphier,

pressed for time, simply bowed out.

"When I got back to this country after flying around the world in less than five days," said Lamphier, "I went back to Washington to pick up the brief case I left in Secretary Symington's office."

When he walked in, Symington said, without thinking: "As I was saying, Tom, when we were interrupted..."

Roofing Load Now In Cellar

MASSILLON, Jan. 24—George Hoffman of Massillon has more than 10 tons of roofing material—in his basement, not on his roof.

Truck Driver Harold J. Speer of Van Wert made the delivery by skidding off the road and into the house to avoid a collision with a car. The materials fell into the Hoffman basement. The driver was uninjured.

Lass, 5, Gets Town's Praise; She's Heroine

DOVER, Jan. 24 — "What's heroine mean, Mommie?" was the question asked by a five-year-old girl who saved the life of a six-year-old playmate.

Bashful, blue-eyed Vivian Sue O'Brien is a heroine to the 600 residents of nearby Bolivar. She saved little John Christman from drowning Saturday in a 10-foot, ice-covered pump testing pit.

Little Johnny told his parents,

GETTING UP NIGHTS HOW TO STOP IT. IN 24 HOURS

If not pleased, your 25c back. When functional kidney disorders cause sluggish action and when poisonous matter remains in the blood too long, it can cause backache, frequent and scanty passage both day and night. Snoring often indicates something wrong with kidney function. Just say BUKETS (25c) to any druggist.

Mayor and Mrs. Bernard J. Christman:

"I just put my foot on the ice to see if it would hold me."

The ice didn't hold. Vivian, who saw Johnny waving his hand and "bubbles coming up," ran 25 yards to a building to get an eight-foot wire cable. She tugged Johnny out of the water and left him on the bank while she ran for help.

FINALS SET FOR FEB. 4

Junior High Cage Tourney To Get Start Saturday

Pickaway County's 15-team junior high school basketball tournament will begin at 1 p. m. Saturday in Jackson Township school gym.

A complete first round will be played during the opening day with four games in the afternoon and three in the evening. Quarter-finals are slated to be played Monday. Semi-finals are due Feb. 1.

The 1950 junior tourney will be completed Feb. 4, starting at 7 p. m. with the consolation contest and winding up with the championship game at 8 p. m.

John McPherson, manager of the junior cage contest, said that four trophies will be awarded at the end of the tourney. Cups will be awarded to the top three teams in the tourney, along with a trophy for the foul-shooting champion.

THE FOUL-SHOOTING

contest calls for each team to have

Darby Juniors Swamp Jackson

Darby Township's powerful junior high school basketball team Monday swamped a host Jackson junior team by a 45-13 margin.

Headlining the Darby scoring was Bob Drummond, 6'4" of Darby center who piled up an impressive 18 points during the match. John McPherson, Darby forward, racked up a total of 14 points in the lopsided match, while Jackson's Easter was high for the host club with a total of eight.

Darby will face a crucial test on its own hardwood at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday when Williamsport's junior high squad invades. Darby's lone loss of the current season was suffered recently at the hands of the Williamsport junior team in Williamsport's Sulphur Springs Pavilion.

one lad toss 25 free throws at the basket during the tourney, with the trophy awarded to the player who scores the highest number of points in his 25 attempts.

New Holland and Washington Township teams will open the 1950 tourney at 1 p. m. Saturday, followed by South Bloomfield vs. Ashville at 2 p. m.; Saltcreek vs. Walnut at 3 p. m.; and Wayne Township vs. Williamsport at 4 p. m.

At 7 p. m. Saturday Darby will meet Muhlenberg Township; Pickaway vs. Jackson at 8 p. m. and Scioto vs. Atlanta at 9 p. m.

Monroe juniors, who drew a bye for the opening round, will meet the winner of the New Holland-Washington game at 6 p. m. Monday to open the second round quarter-finals.

Officials for this year's junior tourney will be Bill Howard, Owen Sheetz, Carlton Rayl and Bob Whetstone.

Few Undeclared Teams Remain

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Findlay (11-0) is about the only ranking Class A basketball power still undefeated in Ohio.

Other top A schools include Columbus South, Hamilton, last year's state title-holder, Mansfield, and Cincinnati Purcell (11-1), Ashland (10-1), Youngstown East and Lancaster (9-1), Akron St. Vincent's (8-1), and Springfield (8-3).

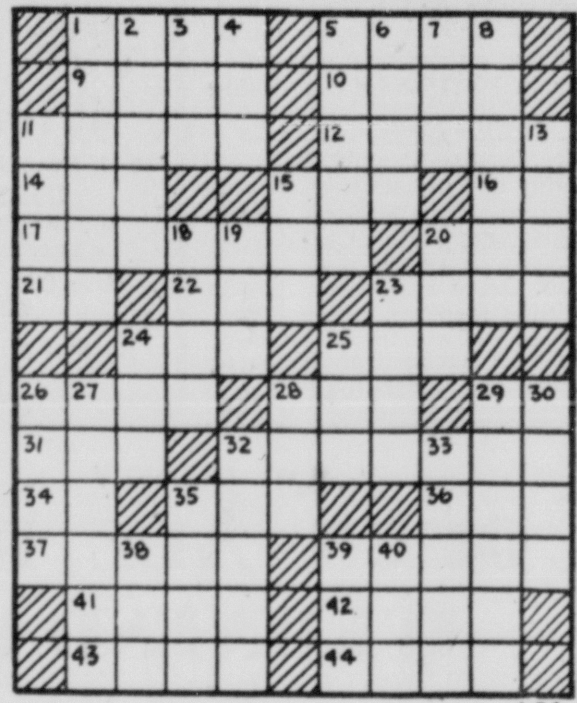

Without a scratch yet on their perfect records in Class B are Sycamore of Wyandot County and Willshire (15-0), Miller City (14-0), Norton (13-0), Sandusky St. Mary's (12-0), and Grandview (10-0).

Other B leaders include Delphos St. John's, last year's state champion (16-1), Mifflin (10-2), and Rittman (9-1).

Reserve Officers, Kiwanis Pace Volleyballers With Clean Marks

Reserve Officers and Kiwanis remained undefeated in Moose Volleyball League following Monday's second round of play. Rotary scored a win also to halve its record to date with one win and a loss.

The Reserve Officer sextet garnered its win by shutting out Sinawik, scoring three victories during the evening without a loss.

Rotary volleyballers won its game by a narrow 3-2 margin over Jaycees, while Kiwanis was credited with a 3-0 win by forfeit over Moose.

Kiwanis and Reserve Officers pace the league going into the third week of operations. Last week the Officers won by a forfeit over Rotary, while Kiwanis was trimming Sinawik by a 3-0 count.

Teams representing Calvary EUB church and Circleville teachers apparently have been dropped from the league. They failed to appear for the first two games. Another pair of teams is being sought to round out the league.

FRANK WILKINS, athletic director for the Moose gymnasium, said he was making every effort to keep the league well-rounded.

He said he was mystified at the few number of teams registered for play. Wilkins declared: "This Monday night activity is the cheapest form of recreation in Central Ohio. Where else can a man go and play a whole evening for 25 cents. That is the entire fee charged by Moose. It is obvious that it is not a money-making venture on the part of the lodge."

"And it is further obvious that there are a lot of men in this community who could use a little physical conditioning."

"Already, we have some of the leaders of the city enrolled in the volleyball league. We have doctors, merchants and even judges."

"We would like to see a few more groups enter the play before the season gets too far underway—church, fraternal or school teams may enter the competition."

PGA Divoteers Now Heading For Phoenix

LONG BEACH, Cal., Jan. 24—The nation's top tee ace today set their sights on Phoenix, Ariz., stop number four in the 1950 Winter swing of the Professional Golfers Association.

In the vanguard of the play-for-pay divoteers was Fred Haas Jr. of New Orleans who yesterday pocketed $2,000 first place money in the second annual Long Beach Open.

Haas was precision personified in the final round as he carved six strokes off par to end the day with a 65 and a four-day score of 268—16 blows below regulation.

Ben Hogan, whose comeback attempt in the recent Los Angeles Open ranks as one of the top sports thrills of all time, missed the play at Long Beach but will join the touring troupe in Phoenix.

The Phoenix tourney has been re-named the "Ben Hogan Open," in honor of the Mighty Mite's sensational recovery from a near-fatal automobile-bus collision near his native Fort Worth, Texas, last year.

Despite Haas' showing in the Long Beach affair, pre-tourney favorites at Phoenix will be Hogan and the man who beat him in the playoff for the Los Angeles championship—Sam Snead.

Snead could do no better than a tie for 14th with a 277 at Long Beach although he clipped seven strokes off par over the short Lakewood Country Club course.

Cooperatives Open Campaign For Members

600 Goal Is Set For County

Saturday Parley Is Highlight

Pickaway County's 1950 Farm Bureau membership drive opened here Monday with a meeting of township workers and laying of final plans.

The week-long drive, slated to finish Saturday with a celebration in Pickaway Coliseum, is designed to boost the membership in the organization from its present 325 members to 600 members.

Saturday's 29th annual Farm Bureau meeting will feature a financial report for 1949, a barbecue, singing and addresses by officials in the Farm Bureau family.

The annual meeting is to begin at 10 a. m. and last until 3 p. m. Saturday, interrupted at noon for a barbecue dinner.

FIRST SPEAKER on the program will be D. R. Stanfield, who will discuss farm legislation now pending.

Following his address, Litta K. Robertson of the Ohio Farm Bureau will address the group with a speech entitled "Woman's Part in the Farm Bureau."

Last of the guest speakers to be heard on the program will be Robert Smithers, an Ohio State university senior, who studied European farm problems and cooperatives on a 900-mile bicycle tour last year. His trip was arranged by the Farm Bureau.

In addition, the members will elect 22 new directors during the program—20 for the Farm Bureau board and two for the Pickaway Livestock Cooperative board.

Group singing will be led by Mrs. Elizabeth Dunkle, with musical accompaniment by a group of Walnut Township school boys and girls.

Members of the planning committee for the annual celebration are C. M. Reid, Orley Judy, John Dowler, Ben Grace, Forrest Brown, Merle Thomas, Lewis Hay, Mrs. Charles Schleich, Mrs. George Fischer, Mrs. H. O. Caldwell, Genevieve Alley and Mrs. Ralph May.

A complete roundup of last year's activities, as well as results on this year's membership drive, will be discussed during the program.

Child's Feeling Of Being Unwanted Cause Of Much Delinquency, Belief

A child's feeling of being unwanted is one of the major problems facing juvenile courts today.

Judge George Young of Pickaway County juvenile court advanced this fact in a talk before Circleville Kiwanis Club Monday evening.

Speaking in the second in a series of child welfare talks before the club in Pickaway County Club, Judge Young said that the "unwanted feeling" is difficult to correct.

He charged that such an attitude is one of the major reasons for so-called juvenile delinquency.

Other major factors in causing juvenile court dockets to be crowded, the jurist declared, are (a) lack of home training and (b) mental deficiency in the child.

Correction of these difficulties is the juvenile court's major task. He said that "taking it out" on the parent cannot solve the problem although he indicated that parents are more to blame than are the youngsters.

JUDGE YOUNG deplored the fact that "most of our courts have no equipment with which to battle the problem." He said Pickaway County was one of the "have not" areas.

The Bureau of Juvenile Research in Columbus is relied upon to evaluate most of the cases. The judge declared:

"Most of their case summaries advise to 'remove the child from its home environment.' But he added:

"Here in Pickaway County, we seldom can do that."

He explained that "we cannot send a delinquent to the children's home. It would not be right to send the child to a correctional institution."

"Final answer is to enter the child in a foster home. But few families there are here who will take in a delinquent regardless of the fact that the child is seldom responsible for his predicament."

Only solution, the judge said, is to "get society to understand the problem."

HE SAID that this "understanding" must come first in the home involved. He explained:

"The home itself must develop pride in whatever it has regardless of how meagre. It should be clean and livable and happy. When that point is reached, there is little breeding ground for discontent, and delinquency will not develop."

Halls Corners Facing Its End

YOUNGSTOWN, Jan. 24—The fate of Halls Corners is to be determined by a special election April 1.

City council set the date last night, following the filing of a petition to dissolve the village, founded 13 years ago to protect operations at the "Jungle Inn," an alleged gambling casino.

The inn was closed for the last time last Summer.

Lake Logan To Be Drained

LOGAN, Jan. 24—Lake Logan, which filled prematurely and floated a gas main that feeds fuel into several communities surrounding Logan, is to be drained today.

Power shovels were moved to the site to release a back flow which caused the gas main to float and threatened a shutoff of the fuel.

New Mark Set For Plane Trip

Mantz powered his North American Mustang from Burbank, Calif., to LaGuardia airport, New York, Sunday in some seven minutes and seven seconds faster time than the previous record held by Joe DeBona.

The three-time holder of the Bendix Trophy said he made most of his flight at 35,000 feet and made his best ground speeds—580 miles an hour—between Chicago and New York.

New Sheriff Bans Gambling

COVINGTON, Jan. 24—Kenton County gambling establishments were closing quickly today in the wake of a crackdown order from the county's new sheriff, Henry A. Berndt.

Sheriff's deputies conducted their first raid late yesterday following Berndt's order that all gambling establishments in the county be closed up.

Chief Deputy Harry Klaine, who led the raid on the Covington-Kenton Club, said race horse board sheets and an undisclosed sum of money were seized.
